An Ominous Dispatch from Shanghai Dispels All Hope for Whites in Pekin.

A GENERAL UPRISING IS LIKELY

London, July 6.—In response to inquiries cabled to Shanghai in regard to the situation at Pekin, the following cablegram has been received from authoritative quarters:

"Shanghai, Thursday, July 5.—Prepare to hear the worst."

INSURRECTION GROWS.

Washington, July 6.—A dispatch has been received at the state department from Consul General Goodnow, at Shanghai, dated July 5, in which he says that the situation is serious and the insurrectionary movement is extending. If the allied forces in the north, he says, should meet with reverses, the disturbance certainly will be extended to central and to south China, resulting in the expulsion of and murder of foreigners in the interior and the ruin of trade.

A strong force, he says, is necessary to check the viceroys in the north and to support the viceroy's in the south. It is understood that the councils of all the powers in China has sent an identical dispatch to their respective governments.

BUTCHERY IN PEKIN.

London, July 6.—There is a mass of wild rumors from the far east. Though so contradictory on most points it continues unanimous as to the consummation of the tragedy at Pekin.

To consistent reports of the massacre of the whites are now added the additional horrors that savage soldiery butchered at the capital 5,000 natives, Roman Catholic converts. This comes in a Shanghai dispatch of July 5, which only adds to the reports given by respectable Chinese who have arrived from Chian Fu and who describe Pekin as an inferno, the streets literally running with blood. They confirm numerous stories of executions and untold tortures of the isolated foreigners. Some European soldiers were captured by a mob.

Yung Lu, who advocated moderation, was killed by Tuan Tang Ye and Tung Fuh Siang, who issued fresh edicts ordering the merciless extermination of all foreigners in the empire.

A GENERAL REVOLT FEARED.

London, July 6.—The danger of a general revolt in China becomes more and more patent and Europe is being confronted with a rapidly increasing fear, not merely that the international column will be forced from Tien Tsin, but that the international troops at the colonies and treaty ports will stand in grave danger of expulsion. In view of the fact that the previous assurances of the viceroys have proved untrustworthy, their promises of protection for the whites are hardly convincing. In the meanwhile the hitherto unconquerable jealousies of the European power stay the hands of Japan, though it is hoped an understanding will soon be reached. The foreign office here has received official dispatches from Tokio today, and the Associated Press understands that the Japanese government informed the foreign office that, in addition to the forces already landed in China, Japan has twenty thousand troops mobilized and ready for action at a moment's notice, when she receives the mandate of the powers. Great Britain is now awaiting answers from the chancelleries to its proposals.

The British cabinet had a long meeting this morning under the presidency of Lord Salisbury, and fully considered the crisis.

HELPLESS TO RELIEVE PEKIN.

[Copyrighted, 1900, The Associated Press.]

Tien Tsin, June 29.—Via Che Foo, July 1, and Shanghai, July 5.—Those best informed in Tien Tsin consider the position of foreigners in Pekin as almost hopeless. It is hopeless to attempt to force the way with the force available. Commanders are willing to resort to desperate means, but to attempt a forced march from Tien Tsin with the forces at hand means certain destruction to any army, besides slaughter of the civilians left at Tien Tsin. Enough soldiers are necessary to defeat the Chinese and maintain communication with the base of supplies and guard the hospitals en route. The water supply is an important problem in a country furnishing none except the river, the wells having been poisoned.

TERRIBLE ATROCITIES.

The Chinese are committing terrible atrocities upon the wounded. They are mutilating all the dead which fall into their hands. General Tung Fuh Siang, with ten thousand of the best disciplined troops in the Chinese army, Mohamedans, are marching from the southwest towards Pekin. The army thereabouts numbers fifty thousand. The empress fled to her summer palace. Mahomedans and boxers are fighting in Pekin. The regiments of General Neih's command, north of Tien Tsin are reported to have deserted and gone to pillaging the country. Residents declare that a Chinese commune has been inaugurated and that peaceable Chinese are the greatest sufferers. The foreign soldiers, burning the outskirts of Tien Tsin to deprive the enemy or shelter and the boxers are destroying outlying villages for loot. The smoke of a hundred fires can be seen in every direction. Tien Tsin was not bombarded today for the first time in a fortnight. Families are returning to their homes within the concessions. Women and children will be sent to Taku as soon as the travel is safe. No unfriendly Chinamen are visible in the streets. A few of the richest with their families are huddled in the out-houses for protection, badly frightened.

Others concealed in various houses shoot at the Europeans on the street. The Chinese dead about Tien Tsin number thousands. Most of those who have been killed lie unburied in the fields. The river to Taku is full of floating bodies and many have been washed up by the tide. Dogs are feeding on these bodies along the banks. The small American contingents everywhere distinguished themselves. Captain McCalla and Major Waller are most popular at Tien Tsin. Their men are placed in the lead of every movement by common consent with the British close behind them

OWE LIVES TO RUSSIANS.

The foreigners in Tien Tsin declare, however, that they owe their lives to the Russians, without whom the other small detachments must have been overwhelmed. On that darkest day, Wednesday, when the Chinese were pressing on every side and the bravest men were abandoning hope, Russian Commander Col. Wozack, arranged the main body with the civilians to make a sortie in the direction of Taku. He left four hundred Russians to defend the city and engaged the attention of the Chinese, the intention being for them to ultimately sacrifice themselves. The arrival of the Americans saved the day. Their arrival proved a complete surprise. Among the military evidences of immense Chinese military preparation for war may be mentioned that arsenals and stores hitherto unknown have been discovered with ten million dollars worth of arms and ammunition of the modern type. These arsenals and ammunition have been destroyed in three arsenals outside of Tien Tsin. Several thousand troops under General Neih are holding the natives five miles north of Tien Tsin. It is rumored that forty thousand Chinese will attack the place at noon today. The troops under arms failed to materialize.

The hero of Tien Tsin is Jas. Watts, a young Englishman, perhaps the best rider in China, who, with three cossacks, ran the gauntlet to Taku with messages for reinforcements, charging through villages under fire repeatedly. Several foreign commanders have recommended the quartette be decorated.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN AND ADLAI E. STEVENSON

Former Vice President is Again Called by His Party to Take Second Place on the Ticket of the Democracy of the Nation.

Convention Hall, Kansas City, July 6.—Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, elected vice president on the ticket with Mr. Cleveland in 1892, was this afternoon nominated for second place on the democratic ticket with Mr. Bryan.

The nomination was made after a dramatic effort by the New York delegation to force the nomination on David B. Hill had failed because of Hill's own determination not to be a candidate.

HOT TIME CONTINUED.

The final day of the convention broke clear and hot. The sun blazed pitilessly down through the same brilliant sky that has marked every day of convention week and the cloudless blue gave no promise of relief from the intense heat. But the grateful wind which has saved the week from being intolerable did not forsake the sweltering crowds today. It blew steadily from the southwest, hot, it is true, from its passage over the plains, but nevertheless a wind. It swept in through the great windows at the south end of the hall, fluttered the bunting and flags and fanned the vast crowd.

DENSE CROWDS.

An hour before the convention hall was opened dense crowds were packed around the various entrances and hundreds more were coming on every thoroughfare that afforded access to the hall. Within thirty minutes after the doors were opened the galleries were all occupied, and still the crowds around the entrance and in the streets had suffered no diminution. Yesterday the hall was so densely packed that it was at times impossible to move around upon the floor, one-fourth of the delegates were unable to see the chairman, and three-fourths of them could hear nothing from the platform. The aisles were choked up to a degree that was dangerous and passage through them was at all times difficult, and late in the evening impossible. This morning the police and sergeant-at-arms started in with great vigor to prevent any repetition of the disagreeable features of yesterday's second session and for considerable time met with success, but they were gradually overwhelmed and made comparatively helpless by the heavy crowds that were allowed to pass by the gate-keepers.

BIG FEATURES OVER.

The crowd was not as terriffic as that of last night—the great features of the convention, the reading of the platform and the nomination of a candidate for the presidency were over.

Sulzer was the first vice presidential candidate to appear in the hall and his appearance seemed to excite very little interest. He came down the aisle from the delegates' door, coat thrown open, hat jammed hard down on the back of his head, his tall form towering over a small Ohio delegate at his side, across whose shoulders his arm was caressingly thrown, and into whose ear he talked with great energy.

THROTTLED A BAND.

At 10:45 Chairman Richardson advanced to the front of the platform a great bouquet of sweet peas in his hand, and with a sweep of the gavel, cut off the strains of the band, slowly stilled the confusion and brought the convention to order for its third day's work. But it was some minutes before there was sufficient quiet for the opening invocation, and then the great audience arose while Rabbi Mayer, of Kansas City, delivered a prayer breathing the sense of responsibility resting upon the convention. He said:

O. Our Heavenly Father, Father, too, of all mankind, Thou Who art nigh unto all who call upon Thee in truth, we invoke Thy name today with the thrill and the thrall of stirring scenes and strong emotions upon us that we may profess before Thee the conviction of our hearts that unless Thou are with us we labor in vain, Thou art arbiter over us in life and in eternity. We thank Thee for the ways in which Thou hast used us as the instruments of Thy providence. We thank Thee for the many worthy men Thou hast raised in leadership over us. O, bless them and all those who labor for the establishment of wise government and just laws.

Make us to rejoice not so much in the largeness of our domain, but in the spread of truth and justice. Make us to perceive more and more clearly our duties toward those who stretch forth unto us their helpless hands in piteous appeal for that succor which we as common children of Thee, all Father, dare not deny them.

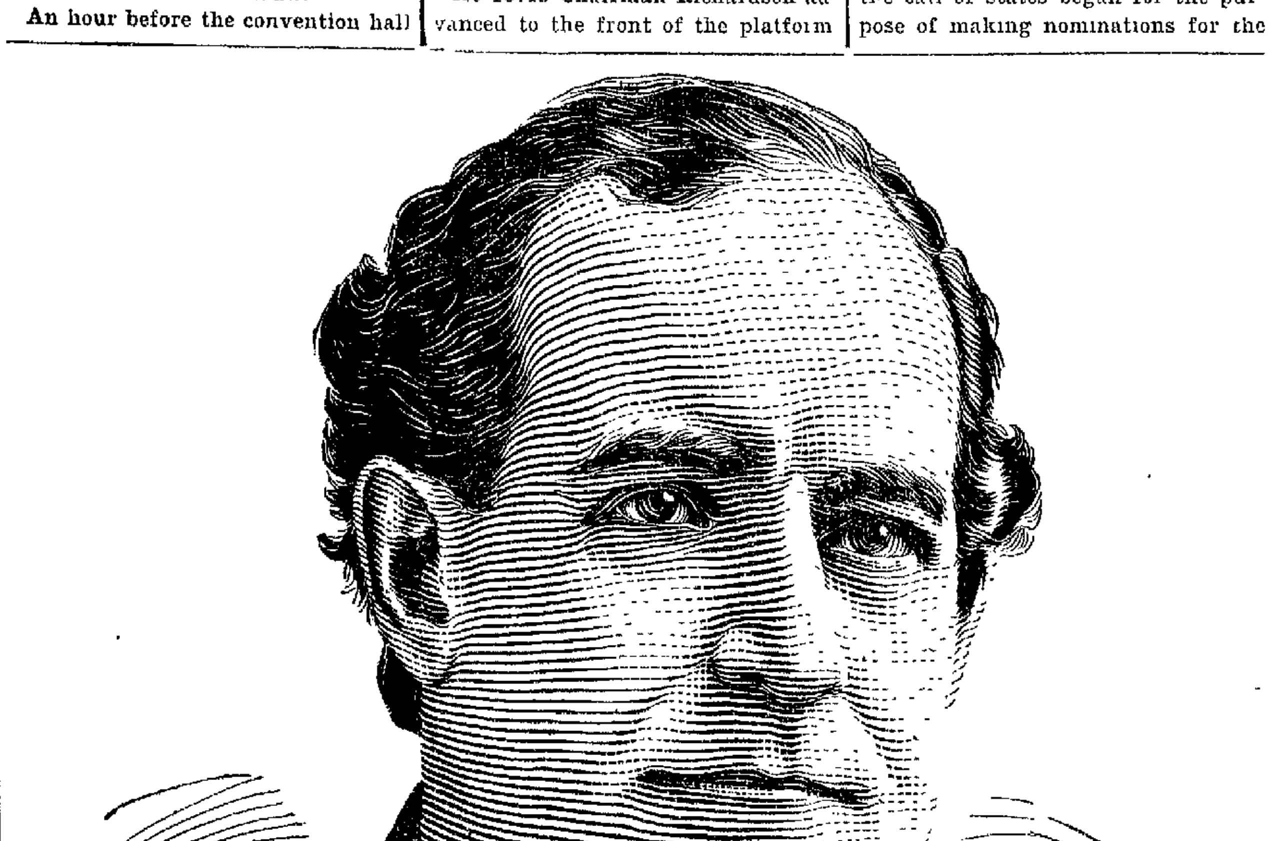

May every good enterprise that invites our service find us ready to enroll ourselves in its use. May we be free from all bitterness and bigotry towards those who hold opinions that clash with ours. May loyalty to principle be accounted unto us and unto all men for righteousness, whenever the desire is manifested to defend the right and to defy the wrong. If intolerance shall continue on earth let it be directed not against the bondsmen of error and sin, but against the falsehood and ignorance that have overmastered them. Thou, O. Lord, hast lifted up an ensign to the nations from afar and hast called for one from the end of the earth. May it come with speed, swiftly, not to blight but to bless, that the partition walls of party affiliation and racial affinities dividing men against themselves may be leveled and Thy spirit of kindness rule everywhere and always

O may there may be none weary or stumbling among its men. We ask it for the sake of Thy name. Amen

Immediately following the prayer the call of states began for the purpose of making nominations for the vice presidency.

Great confusion prevailed and very few of the delegates were aware of what was going on until Alabama and Arkansas had been passed, and California was called. Then the doughty form and florid face of Senator White emerged from the Californians and in stentorian tones he demanded to know what was going on and that the aisles be cleared of the disorderly intruders. When the chairman responded that California was being called for nominations, Senator White announced that California yielded to Arkansas, "and Arkansas yields to Illinois, to place

Silver Republicans Make Nebraskan Their Unaimous Choice for Presidency.

PLATFORM DEMANDS 16 to 1.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—The national silver republican convention nominated W. J. Bryan for president this morning by acclamation, after having adopted a strong silver platform as agreed upon last night by the committee on resolutions. The nomination of a candidate for vice president was postponed until this afternoon, in accordance with the expressed wishes of Senator Henry M. Teller, although many heat-worn and impatient delegates insisted on finishing the work of the convention before adjourning. Senator Teller said the work of the conference committees was not yet finished and until it had reported he deemed it inadvisable to nominate a vice president. An adjournment until late this afternoon was accordingly taken, the majority of the delegates apparently being anxious to await the action of the democratic convention.

SLOW IN ASSEMBLING.

The delegates to the convention were very late in assembling this morning, notwithstanding practically all the important work of the convention was scheduled for today. It was past 10 o'clock when Chairman Brown rapped for order. A few moments previous to the convening the delegates were entertained by speeches and prayers delivered from a phonograph and this resulted in one rather touching incident. The prayer delivered by Dr. Bigelow, of Cincinnati at the opening of the convention, and which brought cheers from the delegates, was repeated amid dead silence. At its conclusion a white-headed delegate from Ohio started singing "John Brown's Body." One by one the delegates joined in the old war song until the Auditorium rang with the thunder of a thousand voices.

A committee was appointed to invite Former Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis to address the convention.

READ THE PLATFORM.

Great cheering greeted the reading of the plank on the silver question, the endorsement of the initiative and referendum, the Nicaraguan canal. The most enthusiastic demonstration occurred when the speaker read the plank extending sympathy to the Boers, the delegates rising en masse and cheering for over a minute. Outbursts of applause occurred frequently throughout the reading of the somewhat lengthy document and a roar of endorsement went up when the reading was concluded.

TRAVELING MEN CAME.

Then an interruption occurred. The Traveling Men's Bryan club, of Lincoln, headed by a brass band, marched into the hall and on to the stage. The band started "The Star-Spangled Banner" and Mr. Tillotson, turning from his manuscript, led the delegates in singing the anthem. When quiet had been restored a delegate offered a substitute for the Nicaraguan plank, favoring the speedy construction of the Nicaraguan canal, to be built, owned and defended by the government of the United States. This was adopted. The platform, as amended was then placed on passage and adopted with a thunder of "ayes." A wrangle ensued over the introduction of a resolution by a Nebraska delegate making the portrait of Lincoln the party emblem. Congressman Shafroth, of Colorado, objected on the ground that such action would make the ballots illegal in several states. The resolution was finally withdrawn.

"We would like to hear from the committee on conference," shouted a delegate.

"The committee is still in session," said Senator Teller. "There has been no formal expression by the democratic members, but I betray no confidence when I say a majority of the members are friends of Mr. Towne."

"Let us do what the friends of Mr. Towne in the democratic convention want us to do; wait and give them a chance and let them show the convention that Mr. Towne is the logical candidate of the democratic party."

"But there is no objection to nominating Mr. Bryan now, is there?" asked a delegate.

"No, sir," replied Senator Teller. "He has been nominated for the past four years."

A storm of cheers came from the delegates at the mention of Bryan's name.

Senator Teller, though still hoarse from his speech of Wednesday, then launched into an eloquent tribute to W. J. Bryan. He knew every other democrat of prominence in the party and he asserted that there was not one of the them who had a ghost of a chance of a nomination, nor had they had any such chance since 1896.

Senator Teller's eulogy of Bryan became fervid and the speaker alluded to him as the Lincoln of the silver republican party.

Senator Teller, in conclusion, placed William J. Bryan in nomination as the candidate for the silver republican party.

Long continued cheering followed the nomination. Delegates stood on their chairs, waved hats and flags and shouted acclaims of the Nebraska statesman until they could shout no more.

A FLEMING WANTED.

The chief of police this afternoon received a telegram reading as follows:

"Chicago, Ill., July 6, 1900.—Find Ed Fleming; his brother George is dead. Bryan Fleming,
"5313 Aberdeen street."

There is but one Ed Fleming known in Fort Wayne and that is Oliver E. Fleming, who is out of the city. Will H. Fleming, his brother, was shown the telegram and he said that neither he nor his brother Ed had a brother named George. They have a nephew in Buffalo named Bryan Fleming, but he has no brother at all. The name of Bryan Fleming is a very unusual one and it is possible that later advices may develop a relationship between the dead man and local families of Fleming. Stephen and Will Fleming do not know of anyone by the name of George E. Fleming.

OBITUARY.

Abijah B. Riblet was born in Erie county, Pa., June 8, 1825; died in Allen county, Indiana, June 17, 1900, aged 75 years and 9 days. He was married to Mary E. Brundage in 1849. He moved from Erie county, Ohio, to Canada, in 1866, and came to Allen county in 1889. Mrs. Riblet had died in 1884, and on November 20, 1899, he was united in marriage to Mary Bauserman. About 1878 Mr. Riblet united with the M. E. church and remained affiliated with that church until his death. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. C. Zimmerman.

LEG WAS BADLY CUT.

While playing on North Barr street at 2:30 this afternoon Louis Long, 12 years of age, residing at 14½ Melita street, had his left leg badly cut on some broken glass. A surgeon dressed the injury and Long was taken to his home in the patrol wagon.

DR. PARR WILL SPEAK.

Rev. Dr. Parr, of the Wayne street M. E. church, will address the Soldiers' Sons' and Citizen's Republican club on Monday evening at their club rooms, corner of Berry and Clinton streets. The subject is "Patriotism," and the address will be non-political. The invitation is extended to all, regardless of political convictions.

A very interesting deaconess service was held at Christ's Lutheran church last evening. Sister Jennie Head, sister of the mother-house at Baltimore, gave a most interesting talk upon the deaconess movement. In spite of the extremely hot evening a large audience was out. All were more than pleased.

THE PLATFORM.

The democratic platform adopted at Kansas City will appeal not alone to democrats but to men of all parties. It is a candid and sturdy declaration It neither trims nor dodges with respect to a single issue. It sets forth its principles in language that is understood. It is a solemn pledge, not a mere party promise.

In declaring imperialism to be the dominant issue the convention has recognized a palpable fact that would not be less palpable had the convention declared some other issue to be dominant. The democratic party has always been a party of national expansion and the platform reaffirms that policy; but it makes a sharp distinction between acquiring territory by conquest and the sort of territorial expansion that has marked the enlargement of the nation's area, between adding to our population peoples who must be denied citizenship and enfranchisement and peoples who can be assimilated. The Philippine policy promises to the Filipinos the same treatment that has been accorded Cubans. A stable government will be established, the people will be given independence and the United States will assume a protectorate that shall be a guarantee against European or other interference. The platform recognizes that the constitution must follow sovereignty, else the republic itself will be endangered. On the trusts there is both an unequivocal policy and a program. There is no compromising with the issue. The democratic party is opposed to trusts, it says so and promises to correct the evil. On all the great questions there is no false note. The party adheres to its traditional advocacy of bimetallism, and while there is no immediate possibility of re-establishing free coinage of both gold and silver the plank of the platform four years ago is specifically reaffirmed. While the wisdom of this has been doubted by many loyal democrats, there was in its unanimous acceptance by the convention the indication that the party will not this year be riven as it was in 1896.

It is a strong, honest and American platform and it will command the support of the democracy of the nation and their allies in other parties.

BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

had within its own ranks sufficient constructive statesmanship to create a nation in which each citizen becomes a sovereign have, true to the traditions you bear, in your platform set out in simple language, with a decided American accent, a plan for the people's redemption from each sacrifice and schism taught by the republican party. The plan contains nothing but the approved precepts of the elders and doctors of your faith. If on a platform, you place a candidate whose devoted and unblemished life shall stand as a pledge to the plain people that he, in good faith, will carry out the solemn covenants made the rein, then the hour of our ultimate triumph is at hand.

There is no greater honor reserved for a citizen of these United States than to become the standard bearer of the democratic party. It at once enroll his name on the scroll of the immortals who are not born to die, and encircles him with a halo of the glory of all the illustrious achievements which that unconquered and unconquerable organization has emblazoned on every page of our nation's history. It entrusts to his keeping the fame of that long line of statesmen and patriots who have knelt for a blessing at democracy's shrine—

O bright are names of those heroes and sage,
That shine like stars through the dimness of ages,
Whose deeds are inscribed on the pages of story,
Forever to live in the sunlight of glory."

This high distinction must not be unworthily bestowed. It must follow as a regard for noble actions bravely done, for unrequited tireless toil, for sacrifices made and strength displayed, for trusts discharged and pledges kept. We must seek a leader whose public and private life most nearly exemplifies his party's highest ideals, who stands unqualifiedly pledged to every issue we declare, who will carry the standard we place in his hands, even as the Black Douglas carried the sacred casket that enclosed the heart of Bruce.

He must not declare for free trade with Porto Rico and then at the persuasive suggestion of the sugar and tobacco trust sign a bill for a tariff on the products of that island.

He must not denounce a policy as one of criminal aggression and then at the demand of the power behind the throne pursue the policy he has so denounced.

He must not, while professing opposition to combines and conspiracies against trade send his emissaries to the trust baron castles to beg, like Lazarus, at Dives' gates, for subscriptions to his campaign. He must not lend the moral support of his administration to a monarchy in its efforts to destroy a republic. But he must ever sympathize with a people struggling for the right of self-government.

Instead of the republican policy of monometallism, he must offer the free and unlimited coinage of the money metals of the constitution the gold, that polished the winged sandals of Hermes and the silver that glitters in the bow of Diana.

Instead of a panic-breeding credit currency, controlled by the bank trust, he must offer government paper controlled by the people.

He must be able to distinguish between democratic expansion and republican imperialism. The first is a natural growth by the addition of contiguous American territory, into every foot of which he carries the constitution, the flag and the decalogue, and over the shoulders of every inhabitant of the added territory is thrown a purple robe of sovereign citizenship. It is a growth that has added eighteen stars to the field of blue in the banner of the free to symbolize the states that have been carved from territory annexed to the domain of this nation by the wisdom and statesmanship of the democratic party. This is an expansion that is bounded on the north by the constitution of the United States, on the east by the Monroe doctrine, on the south by the declaration of independence and on the west by the ten commandments.

How different this is from the bandit policy of the republican imperialism, with its [illegible] its government of [illegible] subject [illegible] against their will by force, [illegible] of other the constitution of the commandment which says "Thou shalt not steal"—a policy that would send our Uncle Sam off on an American range with a cowboy halter, rope and a branding iron, to rustle and brand over all the loose islands of the orient while hypocritically chanting the long meter Doxology.

Democratic skies are tinged with a rosier hue today than when we met in convention four years ago. Then a financial cataclysm had spread over the country, and although its every impending cause was easily traced to the error and follies of the republican party, yet we were in power when it came, and were wrongly held responsible for the wreck of shattered fortunes which followed in its wake. Torn asunder by dissentions within, and disaster without, our party faced a gloomy and foreboding future which seemed to augur its dissolution. The problem then was to select a standard bearer bold enough to cover the rear of a retreat, and save the party from destruction if not from defeat.

While discord with her flaming torch ventured the councils there from out the sunset realm a champion came and bade defiance to the oncoming host. With the strength of youth and the wisdom of age with knightly mien and matchless speech he towered above his peers and all who saw him then with one accord did hail him Chief and pass our party's banner to his hand. Slowly despair gave way to hope, confidence took the place where timorous fear had been, the broken shattered columns formed again, and behind him singing came six million five hundred thousand valiant men to that unequal fight.

And the story of how well he fought, how fearlessly he fell and how dearly the enemy's victory was fought, has all gone out into history now.

Back from his first battle he came—battled but unconquered hero of the rights of man. Conscious of the rectitude of his purpose, and cheered by the belief that no issue is ever settled until it is settled right he cheerfully acquiesced in the result of that campaign, and girdled his loins for the next great contest between the dollar and the man.

For four years he has waged an unceasing warfare against the people's enemy—for four years he has held up the party standard and his voice has cheered the host of democracy in every state and territory. When the trusts began to increase under the protection of a republican administration, he was the first to point out the danger and prescribe a remedy.

When the alarms of a war for humanity roused the heroic spirit of our land he offered his sword to his country's cause on the day that war was declared.

When later he saw the administration deviating from the ancient landmarks of our institutions in its enchanted dream of empire and militarism, he was the first to raise a warning voice, and resigning his commission on the day the treaty of peace was signed, he threw himself into the contest for the rescue of the republic.

Realizing that imperialism, like the fabled Antaeus, was born of earth, and that contended with upon the selfish worldly plane of greed and gold, it was of giant strength, and if thrown down would rise again refreshed from contact with its mother element, he, like the mighty Hercules raised it above the sordid sphere from which its strength was drawn and on a plane of lofty patriotism he strangled it.

With the issues now clearly drawn, no doubt remains as to the name of our candidate. On that question we are a reunited democracy.

Already worthy allies differing from us rather in name than faith have shouted for our gallant leader again, and every state and territory has instructed its delegates to this convention to vote for him here. So it only remains for Nebraska to pronounce the name that has been thundered forth from the foot of Bunker Hill, and echoed back from Sierras' sunset slope, and that reverberates among the pine-clad, snow-capped hills of the north, and rises up from the slumbering flower-scented savannahs of the south; and that name is the name of William Jennings Bryan, her best loved son."

Then followed a demonstration fully equal in fervor to anything that had preceded Wednesday or yesterday, when the platform was read. When the enthusiasm had run for nineteen and a half minutes Chairman Richardson began to poung vigorously for order. He was lost beyond all power of hearing for several minutes, and it was not until twenty-seven minutes had elapsed from the instant that Mr. Oldham had mentioned the word "Bryan" that the cheering had subsided and the convention was in order once more.

NOMINATION IS SECONDED.

Once more the excited and perspiring crowd got into a state of quietude, succumbing because of fatigue, rather than obeying the gavel.

In the midst of that peculiar hum that seems to come from nowhere Arkansas yielded to Texas, and Mr. Perkins began a speech seconding Mr. Bryan.

SENATOR HILL SPEAKS.

Connecticut yielded for David B. Hill. Even as the state yielded the convention took up the cry which had been on its tongue for two days. The men in New York wearing the Tammany badges were the only delegates who kept their seats. Ex-Senator Hill began to speak slowly but clearly, and the attention given him was remarkable. His laudation of Bryan was received with applause and cheers, but when he said Bryan "will have the support of a united party" the convention went wild, and the band had to play "America" to still the tumult. "His integrity has never been questioned," asserted Mr. Hill, and the audience yelled, "That's so." Mr. Hill said:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: In behalf of the democratic masses of the state of New York, for whom I assume to speak on this occasion, I second the nomination which has been made from the state of Nebraska. (Applause and cheering.) William J. Bryan does not belong to Nebraska alone; he belongs to the north and the south, to the east and the west—he belongs to the whole country at large. It is a nomination already made in the hearts and affections of the American people. From the closing of the polls four years ago until this very hour there never was a possibility of any other nomination being made. (Enthusiastic cheers and applause.)

"He is a gentleman that needs no introduction to this audience, nor to the American people. Nebraska is proud of him, but New York is proud of him also. For four years he has upheld the banner of democracy in almost every state in this union. His voice has been heard not only in behalf of our principles, but in behalf of the cause of the common people in behalf of the workingmen, in behalf of humanity. He will not only have the support of his party a united party (interrupted by applause.)

"I am here to say further that the platform that has been read is worthy of the vote and approval of every man who claims to be a democrat in this country. Those who do not admire some portions can speak for others. If there are some issues which they do not desire to present as strong as some other, they can at least talk about something in this platform that is worthy of their approval. At least, in some portions of this country the paramount issue is going to carry, and carry strongly. (Applause)

"This nomination will meet the approval, based upon this platform, of the people of the east. (Cheers) What we need is an old-fashioned rousing democratic victory throughout this land. That will mean a restoration of the currency of our fathers. That will mean the supremacy of equal laws throughout the country, and in this great result which we hope to achieve, I am here to say simply in conclusion, that New York expects to join with you with her thirty-six electoral votes." (Cheers.)

Seconding speeches were made by Senator Daniel, of Virginia; ex-Senator White, of California; Governor McMillin, of Tennessee; John H. Wise, of the Hawaiian delegation; Mrs. Cohen, of the Utah delegation; W. C. Baker, of Ohio, and several others.

SPOKE FOR OHIO.

W. C. Baker spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman: The democracy of Ohio in this hour of supreme moment and victory seconds the nomination of William J. Bryan for president of the United States. For this disciple, as well as apostle of the people, that high and historic place, honored since the dawn of the republic by statesmen, by orators, by warriors, by right of every attribute of greatness becomes him and befits him. The hopes, the aspirations, the deadly earnestness of the quickened and quickening conscience of the American people demand—nay, command—a leader whose name shall stand the synonym for justice and for truth. He stands for conscience and he stands for liberty. He believes as he believes his Bible, that all mankind are and of right ought to be free. He believes in the right of liberty of the alien races lying helpless and prostrate at our feet, even now stripped and plundered by the rapacity of the Spaniard. He believes in the dignity of labor to uplift it and to crown it and to make it forever free from oppressive and unwarranted burdens. He believes in the equality of money, gold and silver, and the uses of it free from the private clutch and advantage of those who make it merchandise. He believes in the freedom of business and business enterprise unvexed by the all-devouring greed of trusts.

For these—for precious liberty, trumpet-tongued, the voice of Bryan, with the ring in it of liberty bell that rang out clear and full and forever the independence of our forefathers more than a century ago, the voice and soul of Bryan shall lie on the answering echoes that will cry aloud from state to state as they record the triumphant responses in the verdict of the people.

It is high time, and the time is now, when the people in their majesty may go to battle with no other platform save the declaration of independence and the ten commandments.

That all men are born free and equal and to all men and nations it was said "Thou shalt not covet and thou shalt not steal."

Planted upon this rock of ages, the democratic party in all these gather states and territories will go forth to blessed battles under his gallant and glorious and knightly leadership, as we lift him aloft in our hearts and ascribe his name on our banners with the thundering invocation that is our war cry of victory:

He has sounded forth the trumpet, that shall never call retreat,
He is sifting out the hearts of men before this judgment seat.
Oh, be swift, my soul, to answer him; be jubilant, my feet,
For his name is marching on.

EX-GOV. PATTISON SPEAKS.

Ex-Gov. Robert E. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, came next and received an ovation while on the way to the platform. He spoke as follows:

"Pennsylvania's excuse for detaining you at this hour is because of her enthusiasm in the work of this convention. (Cries of "Good, good!"). The voice of the people has already made this nomination. This convention has simply confirmed the sentiments of the people from the Atlantic to the Pacific. (Applause). Pennsylvania already, and at all times, is upon the firing line in every contest of the democracy. I stand here representing 450,000 democrats. The sentiments of democracy were first inculcated in the colonial government of Pennsylvania, when its founder declared that colony's capacity for self-government. I am here now seconding the nomination of one who believes, and whose every fibre vibrates with the doctrine of individual liberty and man's capacity for self-government.

"Never before in all the political history of this country was there a more important contest. The people are to determine whether they shall be restored to their own or not, whether this government shall be made a government of the few against the many, and, in seconding the nomination of the honored William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, (cheers) we have the utmost hope that a government of the people, by the people and for the people will again be restored." (Applause.)

BOUND TO HAVE HIM.

He was frequently interrupted by protests as he insisted that he could not accept. From New York came cries of "Yes, you can." When he [illegible] "I did not come into this convention as a candidate, I did not expect to be a candidate, and I cannot accept the honor," again came the cries of "Yes, you can," in greater volume than before, but this had not slightest effect. He left the platform cheered to the echo and surrounded by his friends, who pressed forward to grasp his hand.

When Georgia was called Mr. Hutchinson, of that state, who spoke briefly and clearly, delivered a short speech in seconding the nomination of Stevenson, from Illinois.

James Kennedy, of Connecticut, had yielded to Illinois in the roll call, and said expected a like favor from that state when its name was called, and James Kennedy, chairman of the state delegation, made a short seconding speech for Stevenson, of Illinois.

NOMINATES LEWIS.

When Idaho was called she gave way to Washington, and W. H. Dunphy placed in nomination the name of James Hamilton Lewis, of Washington.

The name of Mr. Lewis was received with but a few cheers, and they lasted only a few moments.

Indiana gave way to Virginia, and Congressman William A. Jones of the latter state, seconded the nomination of Stevenson.

SECONDS STEVENSON.

Iowa seconded the nomination of Stevenson from the floor, Chairman Sells, of that delegation acquiescing in the simple announcement.

Kansas did not respond, and at the call of Kentucky there were cries of "Blackburn," but the senator did not respond, and ex-Governor McCresry, of Kentucky, came forward and seconded the nomination of Stevenson, of Illinois, whom he claimed as a son of Kentucky, he having been born in that state.

Delegate E. H. McCaleb, of Louisiana, arose in his seat on the floor and said that Louisiana seconds the nomination of David B. Hill, of New York.

BRYAN IS NOMINATED.

Mrs. Cohen's speech concluding the nominating speeches, the secretary began to call the roll of states on the ballot for the presidential nomination. The list of states and territories was completed with the calling of the territory of Hawaii. The announcement by Chairman Richardson that Mr. Bryan had been nominated for president of the United States unanimously was received with great applause, but it did not compare with previous demonstrations during the day.

As the people already were leaving the hall Chairman Richardson announced, at 8:53, that the convention was adjourned until 10:30 this morning.

STEVENSON SURPRISED.

Minneapolis, July 6.—The news of his nomination at Kansas City was given to Adlai E. Stevenson this afternoon at the summer cottage of his son-in-law, Rev. M. D. Hardin, at Lake Minnetonka, by the Associated Press representative. Said Mr. Stevenson:

"This comes as a great surprise to me. I was not a candidate at any time and never expected to be nominated. But, of course, I shall accept the call of the party. Indorse the platform? Of course I shall. How else could I accept? I believe the democrats generally will support the ticket. I had expected to do some campaigning anyway, but now I shall do a great deal more."

INDIANA'S VOTE.

Kansas City, July 6.—(Special.)—On the ballot for vice president Indiana voted as follows: Stevenson, 27; Hill, 1; Towne, 1; Shively, 1. Henry Colerick cast the one vote for Mr. Shively. On the recall of states for verification, Indiana voted solid for Stevenson. C. L. D.

INDIANA CHANGED HER VOTE.

Kansas City, July 6.—(Special.)—Indiana changed her vote before the official announcement was made, and gave Stevenson 28, Towne, 2. Mr Colerick voted for Towne and Senator Nusbaum for Stevenson. C. L. D.

When Glasscock was released there was quite a howl in his sympathizers' quarters, but they were mollified by the assurance of the management that the saving of salary by placing Brashear on first base and having Miller manage the team, would enable the club to carry one more first class pitcher. Since that day the fans have been looking for the pitcher that never came. The management thought that the quartette of pitchers on hand was doing well enough and so it would be better to pocket the savings than to spend it on pitchers, and that is why some of the best patrons of the game are standing on their hind legs and pawing the air. Fort Wayne's pitchers could scarcely be improved on, but when they are over-worked and worn out little can be expected of them. All the pitchers in the world could not make the boys hit the ball and that is what is needed now. Toledo did the polishing act yesterday and soaked our boys in a close game. Brashear was in the box for Fort Wayne and pitched a magnificent game, allowing but five hits. Toledo would have been shut out but for an error by Harper, who was playing first for Brashear. The only run for the Hoosiers was made when Brashear knocked the ball over the fence. The club returned at noon today and opened this afternoon for a series of three games with Mansfield. Won't somebody please sand the track? Yesterday's score:

JOSEPH ELOPH PASSED AWAY THURSDAY MORNING.

Lived Fifty Years Near the Western Line of Allen County—Other Deaths and Funerals.

Joseph Eloph, a pioneer farmer, passed away at 7 o'clock Thursday evening at his home, eleven miles west of this city, at the age of 77 years and 27 days. For more than fifty years Mr. Eloph has resided near the Allen county line, his farm being in the extreme northeastern corner of Jefferson township, Whitley county, and adjoining the village of Dunfee.

Death was due to gangrenous erysipelas, and it came after a protracted illness. Mr. Eloph was a native of France, but emigrated to America in 1832. Ten years later he took up his home on the section where the remaining years of his life were spent. He was married in November, 1864 to Elizabeth Rhodes. The surviving children are Daniel Eloph, Mrs. Mary F. Deardorff, Mrs. Malinda Whicker and Nicholas J. Eloph.

Funeral services will be held Sunday morning at 9 o'clock from the residence, and at 9:30 from the Christian church at Dunfee, conducted by Rev. Wood, of Huntington. The interment will occur at the Bullard cemetery.

AFFAIRS IN POLICE CIRCLES

SOME SENSATIONAL ARRESTS MADE THURSDAY.

Half Dozen Well-Known Men Pay Fines For Public Exhibition of Blackguardism.

Yesterday afternoon a party of six well known Fort Wayneites started out for a time. Several of them are business men and the balance hold responsible positions. They had evidently been tampering considerably with the booze clerk and finally landed at the houses on the flats, where they remained from 1 o'clock until a quarter after 4 in the evening. Coming out they stopped in front of the jail residence and indulged in profanity and obscenity too vulgar to be even referred to. Mrs. Melching and daughter were seated at an upper window and promptly retired, while the sheriff went out and ordered them off the street, telling them he would be doing nothing more than his duty if he arrested them all. They pleaded, saying that they would lose their positions in some cases and in others a family row would be the result, as several of the men are married and are raising families. They promised to go right home, but instead went to Della Roger's place on Clinton street, where the sheriff and Officer Pappert later arrested the whole lot and sent for the wagon. Security was furnished and they were spared the humiliation of a patrol ride in broad daylight. They gave their names as Jack Harris, John Barnes, William Brockway, Sam Wise, Roy Clifton and Hezekiah Jones, and it is not necessary to say that all these names are fictitious. At police court this morning a friend appeared for them and a long confab ensued, the friend being willing to plead guilty to a charge of intoxication for three of the men provided the cases against the other three be dismissed. Sheriff Melching would not stand for this arrangement at all and said if the full amount of $11 in each case was not paid in he would make a separate affidavit, with proper names and would go after them right. The matter was compromised by three of them pleading guilty and accepting a fine of $22 in each case, making $66 in all.

Sam R. Miner was this morning fined $21 and six others giving fictitious names were fined $11 for gambling. They were arrested last evening in the rooms over Miner's saloon, corner of Main and Calhoun. All put up a cash forfeit and were released. The forfeit amounted to $117.

The only other victim was John McAvoy, who was arrested for plain drunkenness. He is evidently a hard working man and said he came here to work on the tunnel and would never do wrong again. Sentence was suspended and a fervent "May God give ye long life, sorr," greeted Acting Mayor Bullerman as the grateful man went away.

Della Moran, of 181 Pontiac street, reports the loss of a watch.

STATION ROOF AT PITTSBURG COLLAPSES.

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED

SOME CLERICAL CHANGES AT THE WABASH.

NEW CHIEF CLERK APPOINTED

GENERAL AND PERSONAL NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

Pittsburg, July 6.—The roof over the covered walk at the western entrance to the union station collapsed at 9:45 a. m. and injured six persons. The frame for a distance of 125 feet fell on the pavement and completely buried the Fort Wayne and the Pittsburg and Birmingham Traction tracks. The accident occurred just as the passengers who had come to the city on the Cincinnati and Cleveland express from the east were leaving the station and a number of persons had narrow escapes from being buried under the splintered timbers. The injured are: William Bell, aged 14 years, back injured and suffering badly from shock, taken to Homeopathic hospital; Patrick Garout, aged 12, cut about the face and head, taken to Homeopathic hospital; August Mafredda, 13 years, cut on the head and right leg badly bruised, taken to the Homeopathic hospital; Michael Dersman, laborer, scalp wound; Michael Millinick, laborer, head and back injured; Andrew Sadlick, laborer, foot crushed. None of the injured will die.

CLERICAL CHANGES.

A change in clerical positions was effected yesterday afternoon in the office of Master Mechanic G. S. McKee, of the Wabash, when Horace G. Granger was appointed chief clerk to the master mechanic and Nicholas J. Eichhorn, who had been acting in that capacity, was appointed storekeeper to succeed Mr. Granger.

There appears to be but little proof to sustain the rumors that the Pennsylvania company is after the Monon. The Pennsylvania company has a good line of its own via Indianapolis, between Chicago and Louisville.

The Seaboard Air Line is called upon to defend a suit for $50,000 growing out of one of the most unusual cases ever advanced as actionable. H. F. Sewall was for some reason egged by boys as he was boarding a Seaboard Air Line train at Shelby. Sewall claims the employes of the railway could have protected him from the indignity.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Griebel, sr., are today celebrating their diamond, or sixtieth wedding anniversary. Special services will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran church at 7 o'clock this evening, after which the aged couple will receive delegations from the various Lutheran churches in the city, as well as other friends at their East Jefferson street residence. They have living eight children, namely Henry Griebel, of Little Rock, Ark.; Louis, William and Charles, of this city; Rev. John Griebel, of Perryville, Mo.; Mrs. Charles Regedanz, of this city, and Mrs. Wellhausen and Fred Griebel, of St. Louis. All of these are present excepting Henry and Fred. Mr. Griebel will be eighty-four years of age on the 7th of August and Mrs. Griebel will reach her eightieth natal anniversary on the 15th of September next. They have lived in Fort Wayne since 1837 and 1838 respectively, and were married on the 6th of July, 1840, by Rev. Wynehen, in St. Paul's Lutheran church, where the anniversary services will be held today, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Miller. Both are in excellent health and their legion of friends wish them many more returns of their wedding anniversary, in which wish The Sentinel most heartily joins.

OIL FIRE STILL BURNING.

New York, July 6.—The fire at the Standard Oil company's works at Constable Hook, Bayonne, N. J., was still burning this morning. The fire department of Bayonne and the fire fighting force of the Standard Oil company kept up their struggle against the flames during the night, but their efforts as far as saving burning property were of little avail. About 3:15 this morning another tank exploded with a loud roar and the naptha which it contained spread in all directions. None of the injured was in a serious condition today. Many of the fire-fighters who had worked continuously for twenty-four hours were compelled to quit this morning from exhaustion and exposure to the fierce heat. The Standard Oil company is bringing new recruits from various points to add to the fire brigade with a hope of saving the main portion of the old works. Should these go up in flames the company's plant at Bayonne will be wiped out of existence, and the loss would be several million dollars greater than at present.

ROOSEVELT VISITS HANNA.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 6.—Governor Roosevelt arrived here early today via the Lake Shore road from the west. He was met at the station by Elmer Dover, Senator Hanna's private secretary. The governor entered a carriage and was driven directly to the Hanna residence where he spent the morning in conference with the national chairman. This afternoon Governor Roosevelt and Senator Hanna will go to Canton to visit the president.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Main street, from Court to Barr, will be paved with sheet asphalt. There is 1050 feet of frontage, of which the asphalt people have 525 feet, just enough to insure it.

The frescoers have completed their work at the city hall and removed their scaffolding this morning. The council chamber presents a very magnificent appearance now. The painters will be through in about a week.

William Pizarro Duffy, of the pension office at Indianapolis, is in the city on his annual vacation trip. He will leave on Monday for Lake James to do some tall sprinting in the piscatorial line. If his fish turn out to be as large as the stories he will bring back with him he will have some peaches.

Mayor Scherer, Congressman Robinson and William Kaough arrived home from Kansas City at noon today. They had been in attendance on the democratic convention and left after everything was fixed solid for Bryan.

The general committee of the Trades and Labor council on Labor day arrangements will hold its regular weekly meeting at Horseshoers' hall this evening.

ECZEMA THE ITCH KING

Of the many tantalizing and stubborn diseases which afflict mankind, ECZEMA stands easily supreme. In whatever form, it is caused by a morbid, diseased condition of the blood which produces eruptions and itching. Local remedies give only temporary relief.

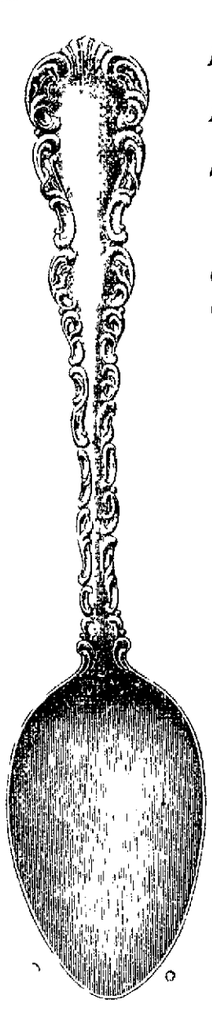

SHOULD BE TREATED AS A BLOOD POISON

S. S. S. clears the system of the poisonous effete matter, restores the blood to a pure and healthy state, when the skin takes on new action and the eruptions and inflammation disappear. The cure is permanent. S. S. S. cures the worst cases of Eczema and Tetter.

Mr. G. W. Miller, of Delaware, Va., says: "My daughter, Lorena, had an awful eruption of the skin, which caused the most intense itching. The doctors pronounced it a severe case of Eczema, and prescribed ointments for external application, but she continued to grow worse, and the suffering was almost unbearable. We were advised to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her completely."

An Ominous Dispatch from Shanghai Dispels All Hope for Whites in Pekin.

A GENERAL UPRISING IS LIKELY

London, July 6.- In response to inquiries cabled to Shanghai in regard to the situation at Pekin, the following cablegram has been received from authoritative quarters:

"Shanghai, Thursday, July 5.—Prepare to hear the worst."

INSURRECTION GROWS.

Washington, July 6.—A dispatch has been received at the state department from Consul General Goodnow, at Shanghai, dated July 5, in which he says that the situation is serious and the insurrectionary movement is extending. If the allied forces in the north, he says, should meet with reverses, the disturbance certainly will be extended to central and to south China, resulting in the expulsion of and murder of foreigners in the interior and the ruin of trade.

A strong force, he says, is necessary to check the viceroys in the north and to support the viceroy's in the south. It is understood that the councils of all the powers in China has sent an identical dispatch to their respective governments.

BUTCHERY IN PEKIN.

London, July 6.—There is a mass of wild rumors from the far east. Though so contradictory on most points it continues unanimous as to the consummation of the tragedy at Pekin.

To consistent reports of the massacre of the whites are now added the additional horrors that savage soldiery butchered at the capital 5,000 natives, Roman Catholic converts. This comes in a Shanghai dispatch of July 5, which only adds to the reports given by respectable Chinese who have arrived from Chian Fu and who describe Pekin as an inferno, the streets literally running with blood. They confirm numerous stories of executions and untold tortures of the isolated foreigners. Some European soldiers were captured by a mob.

Yung Lu, who advocated moderation, was killed by Tuan Tang Yc and Tung Fuh Siang, who issued fresh edicts ordering the merciless extermination of all foreigners in the empire.

A GENERAL REVOLT FEARED.

London, July 6.—The danger of a general revolt in China becomes more and more patent and Europe is being confronted with a rapidly increasing fear, not merely that the international column will be forced from Tien Tsin, but that the international troops at the colonies and treaty ports will stand in grave danger of expulsion. In view of the fact that the previous assurances of the viceroys have proved untrustworthy, their promises of protection for the whites are hardly convincing. In the meanwhile the hitherto unconquerable jealousies of the European power stay the hands of Japan, though it is hoped an understanding will soon be reached. The foreign office here has received official dispatches from Tokio today, and the Associated Press understands that the Japanese government informed the foreign office that, in addition to the forces already landed in China, Japan has twenty thousand troops mobilized and ready for action at a moment's notice, when she receives the mandate of the powers. Great Britain is now awaiting answers from the chancelleries to its proposals.

The British cabinet had a long meeting this morning under the presidency of Lord Salisbury, and fully considered the crisis.

HELPLESS TO RELIEVE PEKIN.

[Copyrighted, 1900, The Associated Press.]

Tien Tsin, June 29.—Via Che Foo, July 1, and Shanghai, July 5.—Those best informed in Tien Tsin consider the position of foreigners in Pekin as almost hopeless. It is hopeless to attempt to force the way with the force available. Commanders are willing to resort to desperate means, but to attempt a forced march from Tien Tsin with the forces at hand means certain destruction to any army, besides slaughter of the civilians left at Tien Tsin. Enough soldiers are necessary to defeat the Chinese and maintain communication with the base of supplies and guard the hospitals en route. The water supply is an important problem in acountry furnishing none except the river, the wells having been poisoned.

TERRIBLE ATROCITIES.

The Chinese are committing terrible atrocities upon the wounded. They are mutilating all the dead which fall into their hands. General Tung Fuh Siang, with ten thousand of the best disciplined troops in the Chinese army, Mohamedans, are marching from the southwest towards Pekin. The army thereabouts numbers fifty thousand. The empress fled to her summer palace. Mahomedans and boxers are fighting in Pekin. The regiments of General Neih's command, north of Tien Tsin are reported to have deserted and gone to pillaging the country. Residents declare that a Chinese commune has been inaugurated and that peaceable Chinese are the greatest sufferers. The foreign soldiers, burning the outskirts of Tien Tsin to deprive the enemy of shelter and the boxers are destroying outlying villages for loot. The smoke of a hundred fires can be seen in every direction. Tien Tsin was not bombarded today for the first time in a fortnight. Families are returning to their homes within the concessions. Women and children will be sent to Taku as soon as the travel is safe. No unfriendly Chinamen are visible in the streets. A few of the richest with their families are huddled in the out-houses for protection, badly frightened.

Others concealed in various houses shoot at the Europeans on the street. The Chinese dead about Tien Tsin number thousands. Most of those who have been killed lie unburied in the fields. The river to Taku is full of floating bodies and many have been washed up by the tide. Dogs are feeding on these bodies along the banks. The small American contingents everywhere distinguished themselves. Captain McCalla and Major Waller are most popular at Tien Tsin. Their men are placed in the lead of every movement by common consent with the British close behind them.

OWE LIVES TO RUSSIANS.

The foreigners in Tien Tsin declare, however, that they owe their lives to the Russians, without whom the other small detachments must have been overwhelmed. On that darkest day, Wednesday, when the Chinese were pressing on every side and the bravest men were abandoning hope, Russian Commander Col. Wozack, arranged the main body with the civilians to make a sortie in the direction of Taku. He left four hundred Russians to defend the city and engaged the attention of the Chinese, the intention being for them to ultimately sacrifice themselves. The arrival of the Americans saved the day. Their arrival proved a complete surprise. Among the military evidences of immense Chinese military preparation for war may be mentioned that arsenals and stores hitherto unknown have been discovered with ten million dollars worth of arms and ammunition of the modern type. These arsenals and ammunition have been destroyed in three arsenals outside of Tien Tsin. Several thousand troops under General Neih are holding the natives five miles north of Tien Tsin. It is rumored that forty thousand Chinese will attack the place at noon today. The troops under arms failed to materialize.

The hero of Tien Tsin is Jas. Watts, a young Englishman, perhaps the best rider in China, who, with three cossacks, ran the gauntlet to Taku with messages for reinforcements, charging through villages under fire repeatedly. Several foreign commanders have recommended the quartette be decorated.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN AND ADLAI E. STEVENSON

Former Vice President is Again Called by His Party to Take Second Place on the Ticket of the Democracy of the Nation.

Convention Hall, Kansas City, July 6.—Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, elected vice president on the ticket with Mr. Cleveland in 1892, was this afternoon nominated for second place on the democratic ticket with Mr. Bryan.

The nomination was made after a dramatic effort by the New York delegation to force the nomination on David B. Hill had failed because of Hill's own determination not to be a candidate.

HOT TIME CONTINUED.

The final day of the convention broke clear and hot. The sun blazed pitilessly down through the same brilliant sky that has marked every day of convention week and the cloudless blue gave no promise of relief from the intense heat. But the grateful wind which has saved the week from being intolerable did not forsake the sweltering crowds today. It blew steadily from the southwest, hot, it is true, from its passage over the plains, but nevertheless a wind. It swept in through the great windows at the south end of the hall, fluttered the bunting and flags and fanned the vast crowd.

DENSE CROWDS.

An hour before the convention hall was opened dense crowds were packed around the various entrances and hundreds more were coming on every thoroughfare that afforded access to the hall. Within thirty minutes after the doors were opened the galleries were all occupied, and still the crowds around the entrance and in the streets had suffered no diminution. Yesterday the hall was so densely packed that it was at times impossible to move around upon the floor, one-fourth of the delegates were unable to see the chairman, and three-fourths of them could hear nothing from the platform. The aisles were choked up to a degree that was dangerous and passage through them was at all times difficult, and late in the evening impossible. This morning the police and sergeant at-arms started in with great vigor to prevent any repetition of the disagreeable features of yesterday's second session and for considerable time met with success, but they were gradually overwhelmed and made comparatively helpless by the heavy crowds that were allowed to pass by the gate-keepers.

BIG FEATURES OVER.

The crowd was not as terrific as that of last night—the great features of the convention, the reading of the platform and the nomination of a candidate for the presidency were over.

Sulzer was the first vice presidential candidate to appear in the hall and his appearance seemed to excite very little interest. He came down the aisle from the delegates' door, coat thrown open, hat jammed hard down on the back of his head, his tall form towering over a small Ohio delegate at his side, across whose shoulders his arm was caressingly thrown, and into whose ear he talked with great energy.

THROTTLED A BAND.

At 10:45 Chairman Richardson advanced to the front of the platform and with a sweep of the gavel, cut off the strains of the band, slowly stilled the confusion and brought the convention to order for its third day's work. But it was some minutes before there was sufficient quiet for the opening invocation, and then the great throng arose while Rabbi Mayer, of Kansas City, delivered a prayer breathing the sense of responsibility resting upon the convention. He said:

O, Our Heavenly Father, Father, too, of all mankind, Thou Who art nigh unto all who call upon Thee in truth, we invoke Thy name to-day with the thrill and the thrall of stirring scenes and strong emotions upon us that we may profess before Thee the conviction of our hearts that unless Thou are with us we labor in vain. Thou art arbiter over us in life and in eternity. We thank Thee for the ways in which Thou hast used us as the instruments of Thy providence. We thank Thee for the many worthy men Thou hast raised in leadership over us. O, bless them and all those who labor for the establishment of wise government and just laws.

Make us to rejoice not so much in the largeness of our domain, but in the spread of truth and justice. Make us to perceive more and more clearly our duties toward those who stretch forth unto us their helpless hands in piteous appeal for that succor which we as common children of Thee, all Father, dare not deny them.

May every good enterprise that invites our service find us ready to enroll ourselves in its use. May we be free from all bitterness and bigotry towards those who hold opinions that clash with ours. May loyalty to principle be accounted unto us and unto all men for righteousness, wherever the desire is manifested to defend the right and to defy the wrong. If intolerance shall continue on earth let it be directed not against the bondmen of error and sin, but against the falsehood and ignorance that have overmastered them. Thou, O, Lord, hast lifted up an ensign to the nations from afar and hast called for one from the end of the earth. May it come with speed swiftly, not to blight but to bless, that the partisan walls of party affiliation and racial affinities dividing men against themselves may be leveled and Thy spirit of kindness rule everywhere and always.

O, may there may be none weary of stumbling among its men. We ask it for the sake of Thy name. Amen.

Immediately following the prayer the roll of states began for the purpose of making nominations for the vice presidency.

Great confusion prevailed and very few of the delegates were aware of what was going on until Alabama and Arkansas had been passed, and California was called. Then the clear cut form and florid face of Senator White emerged from the Californians and in stentorian tones he demanded to know what was going on and that the aisles be cleared of the disorderly intruders. When the chairman responded that California was being called for nominations, Senator White announced that California yielded to Arkansas, "and Arkansas yields to Illinois, to place

Silver Republicans Make Nebraskan Their Unaimous Choice for Presidency.

PLATFORM DEMANDS 16 to 1.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—The national silver republican convention nominated W. J. Bryan for president this morning by acclamation, after having adopted a strong silver platform as agreed upon last night by the committee on resolutions. The nomination of a candidate for vice president was postponed until this afternoon, in accordance with the expressed wishes of Senator Henry M. Teller, although many heat-worn and impatient delegates insisted on finishing the work of the convention before adjourning. Senator Teller said the work of the conference committees was not yet finished and until it had reported he deemed it inadvisable to nominate a vice president. An adjournment until late this afternoon was accordingly taken, the majority of the delegates apparently being anxious to await the action of the democratic convention.

SLOW IN ASSEMBLING.

The delegates to the convention were very late in assembling this morning, notwithstanding practically all the important work of the convention was scheduled for today. It was past 10 o'clock when Chairman Brown rapped for order. A few moments previous to the convening the delegates were entertained by speeches and prayers delivered from a phonograph and this resulted in one rather touching incident. The prayer delivered by Dr. Bigelow, of Cincinnati at the opening of the convention, and which brought cheers from the delegates, was repeated amid dead silence. At its conclusion a white-headed delegate from Ohio started singing "John Brown's Body." One by one the delegates joined in the old war song until the Auditorium rang with the thunder of a thousand voices.

A committee was appointed to invite Former Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis to address the convention.

READ THE PLATFORM.

Great cheering greeted the reading of the plank on the silver question, the endorsement of the initiative and referendum, the Nicaraguan canal. The most enthusiastic demonstration occurred when the speaker read the plank extending sympathy to the Boers, the delegates rising en masse and cheering for over a minute. Outbursts of applause occurred frequently throughout the reading of the somewhat lengthy document and a roar of endorsement went up when the reading was concluded.

TRAVELING MEN CAME.

Then an interruption occurred. The Traveling Men's Bryan club, of Lincoln, headed by a brass band, marched into the hall and on to the stage. The band started "The Star-Spangled Banner" and Mr. Tillotson, turning from his manuscript, led the delegates in singing the anthem. When quiet had been restored a delegate offered a substitute for the Nicaraguan plank, favoring the speedy construction of the Nicaraguan canal, to be built, owned and defended by the government of the United States. This was adopted. The platform, as amended was then placed on passage and adopted with a thunder of "ayes." A wrangle ensued over the introduction of a resolution by a Nebraska delegate making the portrait of Lincoln the party emblem. Congressman Shafroth, of Colorado, objected on the ground that such action would make the ballots illegal in several states. The resolution was finally withdrawn.

"We would like to hear from the committee on conference," shouted a delegate.

"The committee is still in session," said Senator Teller. "There has been no formal expression by the democratic members, but I betray no confidence when I say a majority of the members are friends of Mr. Towne."

"Let us do what the friends of Mr. Towne in the democratic convention want us to do; wait and give them a chance and let them show the convention that Mr. Towne is the logical candidate of the democratic party."

"But there is no objection to nominating Mr. Bryan now, is there?" asked a delegate.

"No, sir," replied Senator Teller. "He has been nominated for the past four years."

A storm of cheers came from the delegates at the mention of Bryan's name.

Senator Teller, though still hoarse from his speech of Wednesday, then launched into an eloquent tribute to W. J. Bryan. He knew every other democrat of prominence in the party and he asserted that there was not one of the them who had a ghost of a chance of a nomination, nor had they had any such chance since 1896.

Senator Teller's eulogy of Bryan became fervid and the speaker alluded to him as the Lincoln of the silver republican party.

Senator Teller, in conclusion, placed William J. Bryan in nomination as the candidate for the silver republican party.

Long continued cheering followed the nomination. Delegates stood on their chairs, waved hats and flags and shouted acclaims of the Nebraska statesman until they could shout no more.

A FLEMING WANTED.

The chief of police this afternoon received a telegram reading as follows:

"Chicago, Ill., July 6, 1900.—Find Ed Fleming; his brother George is dead. Bryan Fleming,

"5313 Aberdeen street."

There is but one Ed Fleming known in Fort Wayne and that is Oliver E. Fleming, who is out of the city. Will H. Fleming, his brother, was shown the telegram and he said that neither he nor his brother Ed had a brother named George. They have a nephew in Buffalo named Bryan Fleming, but he has no brother at all. The name of Bryan Fleming is a very unusual one and it is possible that later advices may develop a relationship between the dead man and local families of Fleming. Stephen and Will Fleming do not know of anyone by the name of George E. Fleming.

Abijah B. Riblet was born in Erie county, Pa., June 8, 1825; died in Allen county, Indiana, June 17, 1900, aged 75 years and 9 days. He was married to Mary E. Brundage in 1849. He moved from Erie county, Ohio, to Canada, in 1866, and came to Allen county in 1889. Mrs. Riblet had died in 1884, and on November 20, 1899, he was united in marriage to Mary Bauserman. About 1876 Mr. Riblet united with the M. E. church and remained affiliated with that church until his death. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. C. Zimmerman.

LEG WAS BADLY CUT.

While playing on North Barr street at 2:30 this afternoon Louis Long, 12 years of age, residing at 141½ Melita street, had his left leg badly cut on some broken glass. A surgeon dressed the injury and Long was taken to his home in the patrol wagon.

Rev. Dr. Parr, of the Wayne street M. E. church, will address the Soldiers' Sons' and Citizen's Republican club on Monday evening at their club rooms, corner of Berry and Clinton streets. The subject is "Patriotism," and the address will be non-political. The invitation is extended to all, regardless of political convictions.

A very interesting deaconess service was held at Christ's Lutheran church last evening. Sister Jennie Head, sister of the mother-house at Baltimore, gave a most interesting talk upon the deaconess movement. In spite of the extremely hot evening a large audience was out. All were more than pleased.

BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

in nomination Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois," shouted Jeff Davis, the democratic candidate for governor of Arkansas, standing on a chair and receiving a cheer for his mention of Stevenson. Now all business was suspended, as the confusion had become so overpowering that the call of the secretaries was inaudible above the roar. The police and sergeants-at-arms struggled vainly to dispossess the mob, which was now well nigh in control of the floor. Men fought to retain their places, and there was many exciting encounters, which at times threatened to precipitate a riot under the eyes of the multitude.

STEVENSON PRESENTED.

It took fifteen minutes to restore some semblance or order, and then the spokesman for Illinois, Representative James Williams, presented the name of Stevenson.

Gentlemen of the Convention: Illinois is grateful to Arkansas for this evidence of her regard. The united democracy of Illinois desires to present to this convention for the next vice president of the United States a democrat. (Cheers). One who drew his first breath from the pure, democratic atmosphere of old Kentucky. (Cheers). One baptized in the great and growing democracy of Illinois; one who can stand squarely on every democratic platform since he became a voter. One who has twice represented in congress a district overwhelmingly republican. One who is not a rough rider, but a swift rider. (Cheers). Not a warrior, but a statesman. A man who stands for civil government against military rule. A man who believes that a president of the United States who ignores the constitution as the present republican president has done must be one who loves his own glory far more than he loves the republic. A man who believes American despotism is no better than any other despotism. A man who places human blood above human greed. A man who will not trade away the precious life of an American soldier for a nugget of gold in the Philippine islands. (Cheers). A man who would not give the 2,000 or 3,000 brave American soldiers whom McKinley has sacrificed in that hot bed of disease and destruction for all the islands in the sea. (Cheers). A man who, during four years of faithful administration as first assistant postmaster general of the United States demonstrated that he knows a republican when he sees him in an office that belongs to a democrat. (Applause). Nominate our man and you will not have to explain any speech made against democracy. (Applause). A man in the full strength of his manhood, able to canvass any state in this union. Gentlemen of the convention, Illinois makes no exaggeration when she tells you that in that great state the conditions are far better, the people are much brighter for democracy than in 1892 when our candidate for vice president carried it by 30,000 majority. (Applause). We have a state ticket stronger than we ever had before. We have but one democracy in Illinois. We voice the sincere sentiment of the democracy of Illinois when we ask you to nominate a man whose name we will present, a man who has been tried, gone through the contest and no weak spots found in his armor, a man whose high character and ability recommend him to the people in every part of this republic, a man who possesses all the noble attributes of a noble man, great enough and good enough to be president of the United States, with a platform that reads like a Bible and with these two faithful democrats standing together, shoulder to shoulder, we can sweep criminal aggression and McKinley hypocrisy off the face of the earth.

Gentlemen of the convention, we now present to you as the choice of the united democracy of our state that distinguished statesman, that splendid, vigorous, reliable democrat, ex-Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois. (Great and continued applause).

Williams spoke rapidly and briefly and at his mention of Adlai E. Stevenson, Illinois was on its feet cheering wildly. Kansas was up, as was Alabama, Arkansas, Minnesota and a large number of delegates in different parts of the hall. The applause, while vigorous, was short, not lasting above a minute. When the roll call reached Connecticut that state gave way to Minneapolis amid cheers and cries of "Towne."

NOMINATES TOWNE.

L. A. Rosing, of Minneapolis, then took the platform to present the name of Charles A. Towne. He said:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: It is a great honor to be privileged to answer "here" to the roll call of Minnesota. The democracy of the North Star state has a candidate for the nomination of vice president to submit to the right judgment of this convention. We come to you to present the name of a man worthy of the high honor of being placed upon the same ticket with the splendid champion of equal rights, whom you have nominated for president. We democrats of Minnesota feel that we have earned the right to participate actively and effectively in the national councils of the party. For forty years prior to 1896 the party had wandered in the wilderness, but as a result of the great contest of '96 and because of the splendid accessions to our ranks in that campaign we entered the battle of '98 more aggressively than ever before and at last realized in our own state that for which we had striven so long and elected a democratic governor. The veterans of those campaigns now stand shoulder to shoulder, determined that this year the electoral vote of Minnesota shall be cast for the nominees of this convention. This condition was made possible because of the brilliancy, courage and fidelity to principle of men who in that memorable campaign patriotically put country above party and severed their relations with the republican party, casting aside personal ambitions, prejudices and self-interest. The man of this type who, perhaps, sacrificed more than any one else who more than any other was called to lay upon the sacrificial altar a brilliant future, filled with promise enough to satisfy the vaulting ambition, who had the courage to sever the ties of personal friendship that he might be true to his ideas of Americanism, is the man whom Minnesota today proposes to this convention as its candidate for vice president. We come to you asking for your support for our candidate, not because he is from Minnesota, but because he is of the people, not because he is a product of the northwest, but because he is an American; not because he stands for any one issue, but for all the issues that mean the preservation of American institutions. We ask your support of him because he is a democrat of Jeffersonian principle; a democrat of the stern school of Andrew Jackson; a democrat of the broad philosophy and humanity of Abraham Lincoln; a democrat in defending the flag of the Union and in believing that to whatever land that flag be carried there the people over whom it floats are under the protecting eagle of the constitution. We present him to you not because he is rich in this world's goods, not because his nomination would mean contributions, but because a beneficent God has endowed him with an eloquent tongue, a splendid heart and all the qualities of American manhood. We ask your support for Minnesota's able statesman, orator and patriot, whom I have the honor to place in formal nomination as the unanimous choice of the Minnesota democracy, a leader of the people, Charles A. Towne.

Mr. Rosing is a tall, powerful man with a voice befitting his stalwart frame. He could be heard in every direction. His first applause was gained when he spoke of Mr. Towne as a man who embodied the best characteristics of American manhood. When he pronounced the name of Towne there was cheering from the Minnesota delegation, which rose to its feet waving flags in frantic fashion. The galleries joined in the applause with fervor, but there was less enthusiasm among the men on the floor who had the votes.

A WOMAN ENTHUSED.

A stout woman in the northwest corner of the gallery climbed upon a chair, holding in her left hand a colored lithograph of Bryan and Towne, while with her right she waved a handkerchief, vigorously. Congressman Shafroth, of Colorado, a zealous supporter of the candidacy of Towne, climbed into the gallery in an effort to get the woman forward to the platform, but she declined to come.

By degrees the enthusiasm spread throughout the delegations and in a short time men were up in the states of Washington, Wyoming, Montana and South Dakota, but their number was much less than that which had arisen to the name of Stevenson.

WORKED WITH HILL.

While the galleries were enthusing over Mr. Towne there was an excited little group about the chair of ex-Senator Hill. In it was Croker.

"You must take the nomination and save the day," said Edward Murphy, excitedly.

"I cannot, I cannot," replied Hill, his face white and set. "I do not want it."

"You must take it," said Croker, leaning over Mr. Hill.

Norman Mack and Frank Campbell held Hill, one on each side, and urged him to accept. An excited man from New Jersey shaking his fingers under Mr. Hill's nose shouted:

"You can't refuse, you can't. The party must have you to save the east."

"I don't want it. You can name Stevenson. He's as good as I am," said Hill, and then turning to Murphy and Croker and gripping his hands he said: "Please do not force this, please don't."

Mr. Murphy then gave an indication of appearing to assent to the nomination by saying to the excited Jersey man:

"You keep quiet and it will be all right. We have it fixed."

Meanwhile the confusion continued to be so great in the hall, that even after Chairman Richardson had recognized Governor Thomas, of Colorado, to second the nomination of Mr. Towne, not a word of his speech could be heard by either the delegates or the people in the galleries.

Finally, after Governor Thomas had been speaking for a minute or more Former Senator White went to the stand and in a ringing voice warned the convention that if order were not restored he would move that the galleries be cleared.

HILL'S NAME SPRUNG.

When the state of Delaware was called the announcement was made that the state would yield to New York. Then the result of the Hill conference was apparent.

A tremendous shout of applause swept through the hall. Delegate Grady, one of the leaders of Tammany hall, had already ascended the platform and, as he stepped to the front to address the convention the applause and cheering increased.

His first sentence rang through the great building in trumpet tones.

"On behalf of the democracy of New York I present to this convention for the nomination for the vice presidency the name of David Bennett Hill."

A DRAMATIC SCENE.

It was dramatic in the extreme. The effect was electrical. His words set the convention in a frenzy of enthusiasm. The scene which followed was by far the most tempestuous of the session, and the name of Hill echoed and re-echoed through the hall. State's standards were seized and held aloft and the convention was canopied with fluttering flags and handkerchiefs. Delegates and spectators cheered and the great structure fairly shook with the noise when the galleries became infected with enthusiasm. Governor Hill meantime had worked his way through the surging multitude to the platform. As he ascended it, his hands were eagerly grasped and he was escorted to the seat of the permanent chairman. He asked Mr. Grady to yield to him that he might make a statement, but Grady declined.

Judge VanWyck, of the New York delegation, hurried to Governor Hill, and began an earnest conversation with him, urging him not to decline the nomination, which evidently seemed to be within his grasp. Hill only shook his head.

SENATOR GRADY'S SPEECH.

It was a pretty, even a dramatic, side play and all the convention was pulsing with enthusiasm and cheering. When finally Mr. Grady was permitted to proceed he said that Governor Hill might decline, but decline or not, he said that New York's united and solid vote would be cast to the end for David Bennet Hill. He spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman: On behalf of the united democracy of the state of New York I present to this convention as a candidate for vice president the name of David Bennett Hill. (After some minutes of uproarious enthusiasm partial quiet was restored and he continued). The representatives of the democratic party of New York state recognize their responsibility to the democracy of the nation and believe they appreciate the expectation of the democracy of the union, in the presentation of this honored name.

There is no state in the union with so much to gain through democratic success and so much to lose by republican triumph as the state of New York. We are to elect this year not only the entire state ticket from governor to state engineer, not only as in every other state of the union, every member of congress, but every member of our state senate and every member of the assembly.

Desirous of strengthening our hands at home, we desire more to strengthen the national ticket. And we stand here, seventy-two as one, to pledge you the electoral vote of the state of New York if David B. Hill shall be the nominee of this convention for vice president. (Applause). This is no idle statement. We believe that David Bennett Hill by the side of W. J. Bryan and standing upon this platform is by thousands and thousands of votes the strongest man that can be named to the democracy of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. (Long continued applause and cheering).

While Senator Hill was on the platform waiting for quiet and for Senator Grady to finish his speech, he kept repeating: "I will not take it." To Senator Grady he said: "This is absolutely unfair. You should not do it."

APPEALED TO JONES.

Judge VanWyck kept urging him to accept and not make a declination. Hill was obdurate. His face was like marble, his hand trembled and he wiped the perspiration from his brow. While Grady was speaking Hill asked to see Senator Jones, and when the chairman of the national committee came the ex-senator said to him: "Jones, stop this thing. It is not wise. It should not be forced upon me. Help me stop it."

Chairman Jones said: "I will help you. Go on and decline and I'll help you out. I'll see the delegation leaders. You are right. Go on and make your speech."

RECEIVED AN OVATION.

Then Senator Hill advanced to the platform. He stood with head bowed a few minutes, expressive of gratitude for the cheers that rolled in heavy volume toward him from every part of the hall, and when finally there was a chance of his voice being heard he said:

Senator Hill said: Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: (Great applause) While I greatly appreciate the action of the delegation from New York, it is proper for me to say that it is without my approval. (Cries of "no, no.") I appreciate also the manifestations of friendliness on the part of the delegates from other states, but I feel that it is my duty to rise here and now and say to you that, for personal reasons, and good and valid reasons, I cannot accept this nomination. (Great applause and cries of "no, no," and "you have got to take it.")

I have not been a candidate. I do not desire to be a candidate and I must not be nominated by this convention. (Renewed applause and cheering and cries of "you must, you must.")

There are gentlemen here whose names have been or will be presented to this convention, any one of which names is stronger than my own. (Cries of "no, no.") There is no difficulty whatever in making a satisfactory choice, and I ought not, in justice to them, permit my name to be used a single moment further, and this convention should proceed to nominate a candidate from some of those who have been named. In justice to me, in justice to them, in justice to the party, in justice to the ordinary precedure of this convention, it is unfair to me to place me in this position without my consent. (Great applause).

NOMINATION OF BRYAN.

After the adoption of the platform by unanimous vote of the convention late yesterday afternoon the culminating work of the convention was performed in the unanimous nomination of Col. William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, as the candidate of the democratic party for president of the United States. The secretary began to call the roll of states.

"Alabama," the secretary then shouted, commencing the call of the roll. "The state of Alabama," said the chairman of the delegation of that state, "yields to Nebraska the privilege of naming the next president of the United States."

Delegate A. Leo Knott, of Maryland, formerly an assistant postmaster general, presented in a brief speech the name of Governor John Walter Smith, of Maryland.

STRONG SPEECH FOR TOWNE.

When the state of Massachusetts was called, Hon. George Fred Williams ascended the platform amid considerable applause. In the course of his address, which was delivered in clarion tones, carrying to the uttermost parts of the hall, he paid a handsome compliment to the state of New York, which he declared was unitedly in favor of the platform and nominee of the convention. For this reason no state in the union was entitled to greater consideration than New York. This was received with a shout of applause, the belief becoming in some manner prevalent that Mr. Williams was about to second Hill's namination. "The name which seems most desirable in the interests of the party," Mr. Williams declared, "in connection with the vice presidential nomination, is that of a man who intellectually and morally is the peer of the candidate for first place, Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota."

A cordial applause was given Mr. Towne's name, but it was tempered by such remarks from among the delegates as, "We want a democrat;" "this is not a populist convention," and other expressions that raised in question Mr. Towne's democracy.

In response to these cries, Mr. Williams insisted that Mr. Towne was as much of a democrat as any man in the convention: Mr. Williams said:

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Convention: We are performing a sacred duty here and as God's benediction was almost heard spoken aloud in our deliberations yesterday, so I believe that His blessing will be upon our deliberations now. I speak for the state of Massachusetts, but I wish to point a moral for this convention from the state of New York to guide us in our deliberations. There is no state in the whole union that is entitled to more consideration at the hands of the democracy of this union than the state of New York. (Cheers). The New York democrats have their internal differences, but they have just come to us with one faction of the party presenting the representative of the other faction, both of them grasping hands in the great union that is necessary for the success of our cause. (Cheers). And had the gentlemen from New York (Mr. Hill) not insisted upon declining and been carried by the convention every democrat who is worthy of the name would have gone home to work most enthusiastically for him.

We owe a great debt to New York, for when we were in a crisis yesterday morning with the rising of the sun New York sent out word from its delegation that there must be no minority report to this convention. (Applause). I do not speak here in behalf of the Massachusetts delegation upon a poll. Massachusetts has come here for the best man and I stand here for the best man, but I am permitted to speak for Massachusetts to second a nomination which seems to me desirable in the interests of party. There has been presented the name of a man who in the intellectual and moral part of the candidate in the first place, and that gentleman is Hon. Charles A. Towne. (Great cheering). I know that there are many among the delegates who are under a misapprehension with respect to Mr. Towne. I know of my own knowledge that after the campaign of 1896, in which he did such valiant service, he desired to abandon the silver republican organization and to join the democratic party without reservation; and I know also, gentlemen, that it was upon the request with urgency of the leaders of the democratic party, that he was dissuaded from taking that course; and had it not been for that Mr. Towne would have been standing here with as much right to the name of democrat as I have to that name or has any man in this audience. There are several states in this union in which the balance of power is held by a party or parties that do not denominate themselves democrats, but they are for our nominees and for our platform; they are our friends; they are present to this city to extend the right hand of fellowship.

Fellow democrats, it is time the populist party and the silver republican party ceased to exist and we have the opportunity today of doing the work that will create one solid phalanx to march to victory for Bryan. (Applause). We all know that Mr. Towne has not his superior as a public debater in the United States. The republican party has put upon the second place a grandstand performer (laughter) and we need a man for second place who can attend to the case of Mr. Roosevelt. There no man more equal to the task than Hon. Charles A. Towne. (Great applause).

At the conclusion of the speech both Williams and Towne were heartily cheered. Minnesota, when called, yielded to McCummings, of Connecticut, who briefly seconded the nomination of Towne. His speech, as usual with those seconding the nomination of Mr. Towne, was received with much applause of the galleries.

Senator Money, of Mississippi, rose when his state was called and made his way to the speaker's platform. He declared the ticket should be composed of men both of whom had been democrats in almost every political affiliation. He, therefore, seconded the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson.

LISTENED TO STONE.

The audience received Governor Stone, of Missouri, with great enthusiasm, who followed Senator Money, rising to its feet and cheering and waving flags, while the band played "Dixie." When he spoke it was with deliberation and he was given strict attention, particularly by the local audience. His eulogy of Teller and Towne called forth a burst of applause and his sentiment that even if they had been republicans their support of silver and Bryan entitled them to seats in this convention was the signal for more enthusiasm. His closing remarks seconding Mr. Stevenson and saying that all who differed in 1896 should be welcomed to the party in 1900, if they would come, was applauded.

Nebraska passed in the call for nominees saying they had nobody to present as a candidate.

Nevada had F. G. Newlands present their views. He named Towne as their choice and the minute he mentioned the name there were calls for a vote. The audience was displaying its impatience at the delay.

CROWD TIRED OF SPEECHES.

The convention was becoming very tired of the last of seconding speeches and there were frequent calls of time. Before he concluded, Senator White, of California, spoke energetically from the platform declaring that those who did not desire to hear the nominating speeches could get out. If they did not care to go out they should keep quiet.

S. M. Gattis, a son of North Carolina, presented the name of Col. Julian Carr, from his state. He spoke briefly and escaped the usual reminder conveyed in the call of "time."

Ohio put in nomination the name of A. W. Patrick, of the Buckeye state. His name was presented by M. A. Dougherty, who was one of the few speakers whose seconding speech could be heard at any distance from the platform.

J. Hamilton Lewis, of Washington, whose name had already been presented, was next recognized by Chairman Richardson. He expressed his thanks to the states of Washington and Idaho, which had championed his cause and announced his withdrawal from the race.

VOTING BEGUN.

The roll call for the first ballot then began. The announcement of Alabama that it had nineteen votes for Hill was received with a round of applause.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

The voting proceeded amid a deal of confusion. As state after state added to Stevenson's column of figures his adherents became more and more demonstrative. The Stevenson drift assumed added strength each minute and as soon as Hawaii's vote was recorded Tennessee, which had voted for Hill, changed to Stevenson. Then there was a rush to get in line with the winner. New York changed from Hill to Stevenson. This simply pulled out the plug, broke in both ends and all the staves at one time and the coal that went up was deafening. Then in rapid succession the following states changed their votes to Stevenson in the order given:

California, North Dakota, Nebraska, Hawaii, Florida, South Dakota, Montana and Connecticut. After that they all made a rush for the coming candidate. The cheering while the first changes were being made was enthusiastic in the extreme.

A procession was formed to march around the hall, but the long session that had preceded the nomination of Stevenson and the exciting scenes of yesterday had worn the delegates out and the parade was short in length, and still shorter as to its line of march, and the delegates confined themselves for the chief part in cheering.

THE VOTE.

The vote of the three leading candidates before any changes were made were as follows:

Stevenson, 551½; Hill, 200; Towne, 122½.

While the change of the various states were being made pandemonium reigned in the hall. Delegates and alternates stood on their chairs, and throughout all of the galleries people were standing and cheering. Practically the entire delegation from New York, headed by Mr. Croker, left the hall. Women and children and other spectators who had been standing in the aisles during the proceedings, and a lot of superfluous special officers and pages, swarmed over the delegates' section. When order had been partially restored the floor section of the hall bore more the appearance of a miscellaneous gathering than of a political convention.

Sergeant-at-Arms John I. Martin, his assistants and the police had the utmost difficulty in clearing the aisles, but the people were finally forced to their seats or out of the building.

As soon as quiet was restored J. Milton Turner, a prominent negro of Missouri, the chairman of the convention of Afro-Americans, which only recently nominated Mr. Bryan for president, was invited to the platform and briefly addressed the convention.

CONVENTION ADJOURNS.

The usual formal resolutions of thanks were adopted amid the greatest confusion and then, at 3:21, on motion of Chairman Jones, the national democratic convention of 1900 adjourned.

BRYAN AND TOWNE TALK.

Col. William Bryan is now in communication by long distance telephone with Charles A. Towne, at the Coates house.

THE PROPER THING.

General Weaver, of Iowa, of the populist committee, says there is only one thing now for the populists to do, which is to withdraw Towne and support Stevenson. He thinks Towne will withdraw in favor of Stevenson.

BRYAN NAMED BY OLDHAM.

W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska, who was to present the name of Mr. Bryan to the convention, was waiting by the chairman's desk, and as the chairman of the Alabama delegation resumed his seat he came forward. He spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman: More than a hundred years ago the Continental Congress of America adopted a declaration which had been drafted by the founder of the democratic party, and the joyous tones of the old liberty bell which greeted the act announced to a waiting world that a nation had been born.

With hearts unchilled by the selfish sentiments of cold commercialism you have responded patriotically to each sentiment expressed in democracy's first platform as it was read to you at the opening of this convention; and in view of the radical departure which the party in power had made from the principles set forth in that historic document, it is meet that we—true believers in the republic of old—should, when choosing a field and forming our lines for the bloodless battle of ballots now impending, say in the language of one of the layed patriots of long ago, "Read this declaration at the head of the army, and every sword shall be drawn from its scabbard, and a solemn vow taken to maintain it or to perish on the bed of honor."

Much of the history of this republic shall be either made or marred by the action of this convention. You, as representatives of the only party which is consistent with the nation itself; the only party which ever

WHEN INTRODUCED

Into a community by a party, you are very naturally and justly accorded the same standing your introducer has, which should make you very careful as to what kind of a mirror you are to be reflected in. When travelling without letters of introduction, your baggage generally performs the important duty of reflecting your standing, which should make you very careful to always carry the kind that will be sure to reflect credit upon you. Buy a trunk, traveling bag, suit case, telescope or satchel of us and you will never be mistaken for anything but a high-born lady or high-toned gentleman.

BLOOD BUILDER....

A good one, for it has stood the test of years—Beef, Iron and Wine. Beef is for nutrition. We use a concentrated extract of beef, a single ounce of which has in it the nutritious principles of four pounds of prime lean beef. Iron is for the blood. Increases the quantity and quality. Wine is to give strength and to stimulate the appetite. The three together are for you—if you need an agreeable tonic. Pints, 75 cents.

FOR CONSTIPATION.

Nothing causes a loss of appetite so quickly as a disordered stomach, or failure to properly assimilate food. Nine times out of ten a mild laxative will relieve this condition and cause the proper organs to perform their work. Formula B is the famous BARTON LAXATIVE. One tablet every second or third night will work wonders in correcting habitual constipation and giving the digestive organs. Formula B is a CURE for constipation and you will not become addicted to take it continuously for months with gradual increase of dosage as is the case with so many so-called laxatives. Formula B furnishes tone and strengthens the bowels, soon making it possible for them to perform their labors unaided. 25 cents at all druggists, or mailed on receipt of price. Formula X for dyspepsia sufferers. Barton's restorative, the great nerve tonic and blood purifier. 50 doses 25 cents. 6 boxes $1.00. Dr. Barton and Benson, 426 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, O.

BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

in nomination Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois," shouted Jeff Davis, the democratic candidate for governor of Arkansas, standing on a chair and receiving a cheer for his mention of Stevenson. Now all business was suspended, as the confusion had become so overpowering that the call of the secretaries was inaudible above the roar. The police and sergeants-at-arms struggled vainly to dispossess the mob, which was now well nigh in control of the floor. Men fought to retain their places, and there was many exciting encounters, which at times threatened to precipitate a riot under the eyes of the multitude.

STEVENSON PRESENTED.

It took fifteen minutes to restore some semblance or order, and then the spokesman for Illinois, Representative James Williams, presented the name of Stevenson.

Gentlemen of the Convention: Illinois is grateful to Arkansas for this evidence of her regard. The united democracy of Illinois desires to present to this convention for the next vice president of the United States a democrat. (Cheers). One who drew his first breath from the pure democratic atmosphere of old Kentucky. (Cheers). One baptized in the great and growing democracy of Illinois; one who has stood squarely on every democratic platform since he became a voter. One who has twice represented in congress a district overwhelmingly republican. One who is not a rough rider, but a swift rider. (Cheers). Not a warrior, but a statesman. A man who stands for civil government against military rule. A man who believes that a president of the United States who ignores the constitution as the present republican president has done must be one who loves his own glory far more than he loves the republic. A man who believes American despotism is no better than any other despotism. A man who places human blood above human greed. A man who will not trade away the precious life of an American soldier for a market of gold in the Philippine islands. (Cheers). A man who would not give the 2,000 or 3,000 brave American soldiers whom McKinley has sacrificed in that hot bed of disease and destruction for all the islands in the seas. (Cheers). A man who, during four years of faithful administration as first assistant postmaster general of the United States demonstrated that he knows a republican when he sees him in an office that belongs to a democrat. (Applause). Nominate our man and you will not have to explain any speech made against democracy. (Applause). A man in the full strength of his manhood, able to canvass any state in this union. Gentlemen of the convention, Illinois makes no exaggeration when she tells you that in that great state the conditions are far better, the prospects are much brighter for democracy than in 1892 when our candidate for vice president carried it by 30,000 majority. (Applause). We have a state ticket stronger than we ever had before. We have but one democracy in Illinois. We voice the sincere sentiment of the democracy of Illinois when we ask you to nominate a man whose name we will present, a man who has been tried, gone through the contest and no weak spots found in his armor, a man whose high character and ability recommend him to the people in every part of this republic, a man who possesses all the noble attributes of a noble man, great enough and good enough to be president of the United States, with a platform that reads like a Bible and with these two faithful democrats standing together, shoulder to shoulder, we can sweep criminal aggression and McKinley hypocrisy off the face of the earth.

Gentlemen of the convention, we now present to you as the choice of the united democracy of our state that distinguished statesman, that splendid, vigorous, reliable democrat, ex-Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois. (Great and continued applause).

Williams spoke rapidly and briefly and at his mention of Adlai E. Stevenson, Illinois was on its feet cheering wildly. Kansas was up, as was Alabama, Arkansas, Minnesota and a large number of delegates in different parts of the hall. The applause, while vigorous, was short, not lasting above a minute. When the roll call reached Connecticut that state gave way to Minneapolis amid cheers and cries of "Towne."

NOMINATES TOWNE.

L. A. Rosing, of Minneapolis, then took the platform to present the name of Charles A. Towne. He said:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: It is a great honor to be privileged to answer here to the roll call of Minnesota. The democracy of the North Star state has a candidate for the nomination of vice president to submit to the right judgment of this convention. We come to you to present the name of a man worthy of the high honor of being placed upon the same ticket with the splendid champion of equal rights whom you have nominated for president. We democrats of Minnesota feel that we have earned the right to participate actively and effectively in the national councils of the party. For forty years prior to 1898 the party had wandered in the wilderness, but as a result of the great contest of '96 and because of the splendid accessions to our ranks in that campaign we entered the battle of '98 more aggressively than ever before and at last realized in our own state that for which we had striven so long and elected a democratic governor. The veterans of those campaigns now stand shoulder to shoulder, determined that this year the electoral vote of Minnesota shall be cast for the nominees of this convention. This condition was made possible because of the brilliancy, courage and fidelity to principle of men who in that memorable campaign patriotically put country above party and severed their relations with the republican party, casting aside personal ambition, prejudices and self-interest. The man of this type who, perhaps, sacrificed more than any one else, who more than any other was called to lay upon the sacrificial altar a brilliant future, filled with promise enough to satisfy the vaulting ambition, who had the courage to sever the ties of personal friendship that he might be true to his ideas of Americanism, is the man whom Minnesota today proposes to this convention as its candidate for vice president. We come to you asking for your support for our candidate, not because he is from Minnesota, but because he is of the people, not because he is a product of the northwest, but because he is an American; not because he stands for any one issue, but for all the issues that mean the preservation of American institutions. We ask your support of him because he is a democrat of Jeffersonian principle; a democrat of the stern school of Andrew Jackson; a democrat of the broad philosophy and humanity of Abraham Lincoln; a democrat in defending the flag of the Union and in believing that to whatever land that flag be carried there the people over whom it floats are under the protecting eagle of the constitution. We present him to you not because he is rich in this world's goods, not because his nomination would mean contributions but because a beneficent God has endowed him with an eloquent tongue, a splendid heart and all the qualities of American manhood. We ask your support for Minnesota's able statesman, orator and patriot, whom I have the honor to place in formal nomination as the unanimous choice of the Minnesota democracy, a leader of the people Charles A. Towne.

Mr. Rosing is a tall, powerful man with a voice befitting his stalwart frame. He could be heard in every direction. His first applause was gained when he spoke of Mr. Towne as a man who embodied the best characteristics of American manhood. When he pronounced the name of Towne there was cheering from the Minnesota delegation, which rose to its feet waving flags in frantic fashion. The galleries joined in the applause with fervor, but there was less enthusiasm among the men on the floor who had the votes.

A WOMAN ENTHUSED.

A stout woman in the northwest corner of the gallery climbed upon a chair, holding in her left hand a colored lithograph of Bryan and Towne, while with her right she waved a handkerchief vigorously. Congressman Shafroth, of Colorado, a zealous supporter of the candidacy of Towne, climbed into the gallery in an effort to get the woman forward to the platform, but she declined to come.

By degrees the enthusiasm spread throughout the delegations and in a short time men were up in the states of Washington, Wyoming, Montana and South Dakota, but their number was much less than that which had arisen to the name of Stevenson.

WORKED WITH HILL.

While the galleries were enthusing over Mr. Towne there was an excited little group about the chair of ex-Senator Hill. In it was Croker.

"You must take the nomination and save the day," said Edward Murphy, excitedly.

"I cannot, I cannot," replied Hill, his face white and set. "I do not want it."

"You must take it," said Croker, leaning over Mr. Hill.

Norman Mack and Frank Campbell held Hill, one on each side, and urged him to accept. An excited man from New Jersey shaking his fingers under Mr. Hill's nose shouted:

"You can't refuse, you can't. The party must have you to save the east."

"I don't want it. You can name Stevenson. He's as good as I am," said Hill, and then turning to Murphy and Croker and gripping his hands he said: "Please do not force this, please don't."

Mr. Murphy then gave an indication of appearing to assent to the nomination by saying to the excited Jersey man:

"You keep quiet and it will be all right. We have it fixed."

Meanwhile the confusion continued to be so great in the hall, that even after Chairman Richardson had recognized Governor Thomas, of Colorado, to second the nomination of Mr. Towne, not a word of his speech could be heard by either the delegates or the people in the galleries.

Finally, after Governor Thomas had been speaking for a minute or more Former Senator White went to the stand and in a ringing voice warned the convention that if order were not restored he would move that the galleries be cleared.

HILL'S NAME SPRUNG.

When the state of Delawate was called the announcement was made that the state would yield to New York. Then the result of the Hill conference was apparent.

A tremendous shout of applause swept through the hall. Delegate Grady, one of the leaders of Tammany hall, had already ascended the platform and, as he stepped to the front to address the convention the applause and cheering increased.

His first sentence rang through the great building in trumpet tones.

"On behalf of the democracy of New York I present to this convention for the nomination for the vice presidency the name of David Bennett Hill."

A DRAMATIC SCENE.

It was dramatic in the extreme. The effect was electrical. His words set the convention in a frenzy of enthusiasm. The scene which followed was by far the most tempestuous of the session, and the name of Hill echoed and re-echoed through the hall. State's standards were seized and held aloft and the convention was canopied with fluttering flags and handkerchiefs. Delegates and spectators cheered and the great structure fairly shook with the noise when the galleries became infected with enthusiasm. Governor Hill meantime had worked his way through the surging multitude to the platform. As he ascended it, his hands were eagerly grasped and he was escorted to the seat of the permanent chairman. He asked Mr. Grady to yield to him that he might make a statement, but Grady declined.

Judge VanWyck, of the New York delegation, hurried to Governor Hill, and began an earnest conversation with him, urging him not to decline the nomination, which evidently seemed to be within his grasp. Hill only shook his head.

SENATOR GRADY'S SPEECH.

It was a pretty, even a dramatic, side play and all the convention was pulsing with enthusiasm and cheering. When finally Mr. Grady was permitted to proceed he said that Governor Hill might decline, but decline or not, he said that New York's united and solid vote would be cast to the end for David Bennet Hill. He spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman: On behalf of the united democracy of the state of New York I present to this convention as a candidate for vice president the name of David Bennett Hill. (After some minutes' of uproarious enthusiasm partial quiet was restored and he continued). The representatives of the democratic party of New York state recognize their responsibility to the democracy of the nation and believe they appreciate the expectation of the democracy of the union, in the presentation of this honored name.

There is no state in the union with so much to gain through democratic success and so much to lose by republican triumph as the state of New York. We are to elect this year not only the entire state ticket from governor to state engineer; not only as in every other state of the union, every member of congress, but every member of our state senate and every member of the assembly.

Desirous of strengthening our hands at home, we desire more to strengthen the national ticket. And we stand here, seventy-two as one, to pledge you the electoral vote of the state of New York if David B. Hill shall be the nominee of this convention for vice president. (Applause). This is no idle statement. We believe that David Bennett Hill by the side of W. J. Bryan and standing upon this platform is by thousands and thousands of votes the strongest man that can be named to the democracy of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. (Long continued applause and cheering).

While Senator Hill was on the platform waiting for quiet and for Senator Grady to finish his speech, he kept repeating: "I will not take it." To Senator Grady he said: "This is absolutely unfair. You should not do it."

APPEALED TO JONES.

Judge VanWyck kept urging him to accept and not make a declination. Hill was obdurate. His face was like marble, his hand trembled and he wiped the perspiration from his brow. While Grady was speaking Hill asked to see Senator Jones, and when the chairman of the national committee came the ex-senator said to him: "Jones, stop this thing. It is not wise. It should not be forced upon me. Help me stop it."

Chairman Jones said: "I will help you. Go on and decline and I'll help you out. I'll see the delegation leaders. You are right. Go on and make your speech."

RECEIVED AN OVATION.

Then Senator Hill advanced to the platform. He stood with head bowed a few minutes, expressive of gratitude for the cheers that rolled in heavy volume toward him from every part of the hall, and when finally there was a chance of his voice being heard he said:

Senator Hill said: Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: (Great applause) While I greatly appreciate the action of the delegation from New York it is proper for me to say that it is with out my approval. (Cries of "no, no.") I appreciate also the manifestations of friendliness on the part of the delegates from other states, but I feel that it is my duty to rise here and now and say to you that, for personal reasons, and good and valid reasons, I cannot accept this nomination. (Great applause and cries of "no, no," and "you have got to take it.")

I have not been a candidate. I do not desire to be a candidate and I must not be nominated by this convention. (Renewed applause and cheering and cries of "you must, you must.")

There are gentlemen here whose names have been or will be presented to this convention, any one of which names is stronger than my own. (Cries of "no, no.") There is no difficulty whatever in making a satisfactory choice, and I ought not, in justice to them, permit my name to be used a single moment further, and this convention should proceed to nominate a candidate from some of those who have been named. In justice to me, in justice to them, in justice to the party, in justice to the ordinary procedure of this convention, it is unfair to me to place me in this position without my consent. (Great applause)

NOMINATION OF BRYAN.

After the adoption of the platform by unanimous vote of the convention late yesterday afternoon the culminating work of the convention was performed in the unanimous nomination of Col. William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, as the candidate of the democratic party for president of the United States. The secretary began to call the roll of states.

"Alabama," the secretary then shouted, commencing the call of the roll. "The state of Alabama," said the chairman of the delegation of that state, "yields to Nebraska the privilege of naming the next president of the United States."

Delegate A. Leo Knott, of Maryland, formerly an assistant postmaster general, presented in a brief speech the name of Governor John Walter Smith, of Maryland.

STRONG SPEECH FOR TOWNE.

When the state of Massachusetts was called, Hon. George Fred Williams ascended the platform amid considerable applause. In the course of his address, which was delivered in clarion tones, carrying to the uttermost parts of the hall, he paid a handsome compliment to the state of New York, which he declared was unitedly in favor of the platform and nominee of the convention. For this reason no state in the union was entitled to greater consideration than New York. This was received with a shout of applause, the belief becoming in some manner prevalent that Mr. Williams was about to second Hill's nomination. "The name which seems most desirable in the interests of the party," Mr. Williams declared, "in connection with the vice presidential nomination, is that of a man who intellectually and morally is the peer of the candidate for first place, Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota."

A cordial applause was given Mr. Towne's name, but it was tempered by such remarks from among the delegates as, "We want a democrat;" "this is not a populist convention," and other expressions that raised in question Mr. Towne's democracy.

In response to these cries, Mr. Williams insisted that Mr. Towne was as much of a democrat as any man in the convention: Mr. Williams said:

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Convention: We are performing a sacred duty here and as God's benediction was almost heard spoken aloud in our deliberations yesterday, so I believe that His blessing will be upon our deliberations now. I speak for the state of Massachusetts, but I wish to point a moral for this convention from the state of New York to guide us in our deliberations. There is no state in the whole union that is entitled to more consideration at the hands of the democracy of this union than the state of New York. (Cheers). The New York democrats have their internal differences, but they have just come to us with one faction of the party presenting the representative of the other faction, both of them grasping hands in the great union that is necessary for the success of our cause. (Cheers). And had the gentlemen from New York (Mr. Hill) not insisted upon declining and been named by the convention every democrat who is worthy of the name would have gone home to work most enthusiastically for him.

We owe a great debt to New York, for when we were in a crisis yesterday morning with the rising of the sun New York sent out word from its delegation that there must be no minority report to this convention. (Applause). I do not speak here in behalf of the Massachusetts delegation upon a poll. Massachusetts has come here for the best men and I stand here for the best man, but I am permitted to speak for Massachusetts to second a nomination which seems to me desirable in the interests of party. There has been presented the name of a man who in the intellectual and moral per of the candidate in the first place, and that gentleman is Hon. Charles A. Towne. (Great cheering). I know that there are many among the delegates who are under a misapprehension with respect to Mr. Towne. I know of my own knowledge that after the campaign of 1896, in which he did such valiant service, he desired to abandon the silver republican organization and to join the democratic party without reservation; and I know also, gentlemen, that it was upon the request, with urgency of the leaders of the democratic party, that he was dissuaded from taking that course; and had it not been for that Mr. Towne would have been standing here with as much right to the name of democrat as I have to that name or has any man in this audience. There are several states in this union in which the balance of power is held by a party or parties that do not denominate themselves democrats, but they are for our nominees and for our platform; they are our friends; they are present in this city to extend the right hand of fellowship.

Fellow democrats, it is time the populist party and the silver republican party ceased to exist and we have the opportunity today of doing the work that will create one solid phalanx to march to victory for Bryan. (Applause). We all know that Mr. Towne has not his superior as a public debater in the United States. The republican party has put upon the second place a grandstand performer (laughter) and we need a man for second place who can attend to the case of Mr. Roosevelt. There no man more equal to the task than Hon. Charles A. Towne. (Great applause).

At the conclusion of the speech both Williams and Towne were heartily cheered. Minnesota, when called, yielded to McCummings, of Connecticut, who briefly seconded the nomination of Towne. His speech, as usual with those seconding the nomination of Mr. Towne, was received with much applause of the galleries.

Senator Money, of Mississippi, rose when his state was called and made his way to the speaker's platform. He declared the ticket should be composed of men both of whom had been democrats in almost every political affiliation. He, therefore, seconded the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson.

LISTENED TO STONE.

The audience received Governor Stone, of Missouri, with great enthusiasm, who followed Senator Money, rising to its feet and cheering and waving flags, while the band played "Dixie." When he spoke it was with deliberation and he was given strict attention, particularly by the local audience. His eulogy of Teller and Towne called forth a burst of applause and his sentiment that even if they had been republicans their support of silver and Bryan entitled them to seats in this convention was the signal for more enthusiasm. His closing remarks seconding Mr. Stevenson and saying that all who differed in 1896 should be welcomed to the party in 1900, if they would come, was applauded.

Nebraska passed in the call for nominees saying they had nobody to present as a candidate.

Nevada had F. G. Newlands present their views. He named Towne as their choice and the minute he mentioned the name there were calls for a vote. The audience was displaying its impatience at the delay.

CROWD TIRED OF SPEECHES.

The convention was becoming very tired of the last of seconding speeches and there were frequent calls of time. Before he concluded, Senator White, of California, spoke energetically from the platform declaring that those who did not desire to hear the nominating speeches could get out. If they did not care to go out they should keep quiet.

S. M. Gattis, a son of North Carolina, presented the name of Col. Julian Carr, from his state. He spoke briefly and escaped the usual reminder conveyed in the call of "time."

Ohio put in nomination the name of A. W. Patrick, of the Buckeye state. His name was presented by M. A. Dougherty, who was one of the few speakers whose seconding speech could be heard at any distance from the platform.

J. Hamilton Lewis, of Washington, whose name had already been presented, was next recognized by Chairman Richardson. He expressed his thanks to the states of Washington and Idaho, which had championed his cause and announced his withdrawal from the race.

VOTING BEGUN.

The roll call for the first ballot then began. The announcement of Alabama that it had nineteen votes for Hill was received with a roar of applause.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

The voting proceeded amid a deal of confusion. As state after state added to Stevenson's column of figures his adherents became more and more demonstrative. The Stevenson drift assumed added strength each minute and as soon as Hawaii's vote was recorded Tennessee, which had voted for Hill, changed to Stevenson. Then there was a rush to get in line with the winner. New York changed from Hill to Stevenson. This simply pulled out the plug, broke in both ends and all the staves at one time and the roar that went up was deafening. Then in rapid succession the following states changed their votes to Stevenson in the order given:

California, North Dakota, Nebraska, Hawaii, Florida, South Dakota, Montana and Connecticut. After that they all made a rush for the coming candidate. The cheering while the first changes were being made was enthusiastic in the extreme.

A procession was formed to march around the hall, but the long session that had preceded the nomination of Stevenson and the exciting scenes of yesterday had worn the delegates out and the parade was short in length, and still shorter as to its line of march, and the delegates confined themselves for the chief part in cheering.

THE VOTE.

The vote of the three leading candidates before any changes were made were as follows:

Stevenson, 55[illegible]; Hill, 200; Towne, [illegible].

While the change of the various states were being made pandemonium reigned in the hall. Delegates and alternates stood on their chairs, and throughout all of the galleries people were standing and cheering. Practically the entire delegation from New York, headed by Mr. Croker, left the hall. Women and children and other spectators who had been standing in the aisles during the proceedings, and a lot of superfluous special officers and pages, swarmed over the delegates' section. When order had been partially restored the floor section of the hall bore more the appearance of a miscellaneous gathering than of a political convention.

Sergeant-at-Arms John I. Martin, his assistants and the police had the utmost difficulty in clearing the aisles, but the people were finally forced to their seats or out of the building.

As soon as quiet was restored J. Milton Turner, a prominent negro of Missouri, the chairman of the convention of Afro-Americans, which only recently nominated Mr. Bryan for president, was invited to the platform and briefly addressed the convention.

CONVENTION ADJOURNS.

The usual formal resolutions of thanks were adopted amid the greatest confusion and then, at 3:21, on motion of Chairman Jones, the national democratic convention of 1900 adjourned.

BRYAN AND TOWNE TALK.

Col. William Bryan is now in communication by long distance telephone with Charles A. Towne, at the Coates house.

THE PROPER THING.

General Weaver, of Iowa, of the populist committee, says there is only one thing now for the populists to do, which is to withdraw Towne and support Stevenson. He thinks Towne will withdraw in favor of Stevenson.

BRYAN NAMED BY OLDHAM.

W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska, who was to present the name of Mr. Bryan to the convention, was waiting by the chairman's desk, and as the chairman of the Alabama delegation resumed his seat he came forward. He spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman: More than a hundred years ago the Continental Congress of America adopted a declaration which had been drafted by the founder of the democratic party, and the joyous tones of the old liberty bell which greeted the act announced to a waiting world that a nation had been born.

With hearts unchilled by the selfish sentiments of cold commercialism you have responded patriotically to each sentiment contained in democracy's first platform as it was read to you at the opening of this convention; and in view of the radical departure which the party in power had made from the principles set forth in that historic document, it is meet that we—true believers in the republic of old—should, when choosing a field and forming our lines for the bloodless battle of ballots now impending, say in the language of one of the loved patriots of long ago, "Read this declaration at the head of the army, and every sword shall be drawn from its scabbard, and a solemn vow taken to maintain it or to perish on the bed of honor."

Much of the history of this republic shall be either made or marred by the action of this convention. You, as representatives of the only party which is co-existent with the nation itself; the only party which ever

THE PLATFORM.

The democratic platform adopted at Kansas City will appeal not alone to democrats but to men of all parties. It is a candid and stately declaration. It neither trims nor dodges with respect to a single issue. It sets forth its principles in language that is understood. It is a solemn pledge, not a mere party promise.

In declaring imperialism to be the dominant issue the convention has recognized a palpable fact that would not be less palpable had the convention declared some other issue to be dominant. The democratic party has always been a party of national expansion and the platform reaffirms that policy; but it makes a sharp distinction between acquiring territory by conquest and the sort of territorial expansion that has marked the enlargement of the nation's area between adding to our population peoples who must be denied citizenship and enfranchisement and peoples who can be assimilated. The Philippine policy promises to the Filipinos the same treatment that has been accorded Cubans. A stable government will be established, the people will be given independence and the United States will assume a protectorate that shall be a guarantee against European or other interference. The platform recognizes that the constitution must follow sovereignty, else the republic itself will be endangered. On the trusts there is both an unequivocal policy and a program. There is no compromising with the issue. The democratic party is opposed to trusts, it says so and promises to correct the evil. On all the great questions there is no false note. The party adheres to its traditional advocacy of bimetallism, and while there is no immediate possibility of re-establishing free coinage of both gold and silver the plank of the platform four years ago is specifically reaffirmed. While the wisdom of this has been doubted by many loyal democrats, there was in its unanimous acceptance by the convention the indication that the party will not this year be riven as it was in 1896.

It is a strong, honest and American platform and it will command the support of the democracy of the nation and their allies in other parties.

Winona Lake, Ind., July 6.—Yesterday was another big day at Winona and today is just as big. The Wabash Glee club yesterday afternoon and night again did themselves proud, and the vitascope pictures last night drew large crowds again.

This morning the regular convocation exercises were held, and this afternoon a large crowd gathered to hear E. P. Brown, editor of Ram's Horn. Tonight ex-President John, of DePauw university, will deliver his lecture on the "Worth of Man." Tomorrow will be given over to field and water sports, and Mr. Brown lectures again at night. He is also expected to preach Sunday morning.

Some very well-known musicians from Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Chicago, Cleveland and other points will furnish the music.

Late arrivals at the Winona hotel are: W. W. McIntire, Etta Lawrence, Bertha Scott, Mable Scott and Marion Scott, Cincinnati. At the Inn: Miss Emma Kane, Kokomo; Mrs. Kate Fitch, Kansas City; Elmer Scott, Indianapolis; O. W. Nottingham, Tipton; Esther G. Boone, Salem, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Haines, Crawfordsville.

Messrs. C. B. Davis and Winch have returned to Fort Wayne, after having spent the Fourth here.

S. D. Melsheimer, railway editor of the Fort Wayne Sentinel, is here with his family, visiting Editor E. A. K. Hackett, at the Wishard cottage.

CLOSED FIVE DEALS.

That ray C. F. Pfeiffer completed five real estate deals. Mrs. A. T. Woolsey, of this city, purchased a lot at Rome City; Felix Vananda invested in a lot in North Wayne addition, Conductor McKeehan and Ed. Gustard each purchased a house and lot on Hurd street, and Phoebe Heathman bought a lot on Putnam street. There seems to be renewed activity in real estate circles in this city.

A CANDIDATE COMES.

Rev. Hunsecker, of Iowa, will arrive in the city next week and on Sunday will occupy the pulpit of Heidelberg Reformed church, both morning and evening. Rev. Hunsecker is said to be a talented young minister and he comes as a candidate for the vacant pastorate of Heidelberg church.

The balloon which went up from Centlivre park on Wednesday night has not yet been recovered. The aeronaut descended near where the Robison park line crosses the canal but the balloon has not since been seen. It presumably fell into the river or the canal. The loss is about $60.

BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

[illegible] a plan for the people's redemption from each [illegible] and scheme taught by the republican party. The plan contains nothing but the approved precepts of the fathers and doctors of your faith. [illegible]

There is no greater honor reserved for a citizen of these United States than to become the standard bearer of the democratic party. [illegible]

O bright are names of those heroes and sages
That shone like stars through the dimness of age,
Whose deeds are recorded on the pages of story,
Forever to live in the sunlight of glory."

This high distinction must not be unworthily bestowed. It must follow as a reward for noble actions bravely done, [illegible] We must seek a leader whose public and private life most nearly exemplifies his party's highest ideals [illegible]

He must not declare for free trade with Porto Rico and then at the persuasion of the sugar and tobacco trust sign a bill for a tariff on the products of that island.

He must not denounce a man as one of criminal aggression and then at the demand of a power behind the throne [illegible]

[illegible]

Recalling that [illegible] the first American was born of earth and that [illegible] upon the selfish worldly plane of greed and gold. It was of giant strength, and if thrown down would rise again refreshed from contact with its mother element, he, like the mighty Hercules raised it above the sordid sphere from which its strength was drawn and on a plane of lofty patriotism he strangled it.

With the issues now clearly drawn, no doubt remains as to the name of our candidate. On that question we are a reunited democracy.

Already worthy allies differing from us rather in name than faith have shouted for our gallant leader again, and every state and territory has instructed its delegates to this convention to vote for him here. So it only remains for Nebraska to pronounce the name that has been thundered forth from the foot of Bunker Hill, and echoed back from Sierras' sunset slope and that reverberates among the pine clad, snow-capped hills of the north, and rises up from the slumbering flower-scented savannahs of the south; and that name is the name of William Jennings Bryan, her best loved son."

Then followed a demonstration fully equal in fervor to anything that had preceded Wednesday or yesterday, when the platform was read. When the enthusiasm had run for nineteen and a half minutes Chairman Richardson began to pound vigorously for order. He was lost beyond all power of beating for several minutes, and it was not until twenty-seven minutes had elapsed from the instant that Mr. Oldham had mentioned the word "Bryan" that the cheering had subsided and the convention was in order once more.

NOMINATION IS SECONDED.

Once more the excited and perspiring crowd got into a state of quietude, succumbing because of fatigue, rather than obeying the gavel.

In the midst of that peculiar hum that seems to come from nowhere Arkansas yielded to Texas, and Mr. Perkins began a speech seconding Mr. Bryan.

SENATOR HILL SPEAKS.

Connecticut yielded for David B. Hill. Even as the state yielded the convention took up the cry which had been on its tongue for two days. The men in New York wearing the Tammany badges were the only delegates who kept their seats. Ex-Senator Hill began to speak slowly but clearly, and the attention given him was remarkable. His laudation of Bryan was received with applause and cheers, but when he said Bryan "will have the support of a united party" the convention went wild, and the band had to play "America" to still the tumult. "His integrity has never been questioned," asserted Mr. Hill, and the audience yelled, "That's so." Mr. Hill said:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: In behalf of the democratic masses of the state of New York, for whom I assume to speak on this occasion, I second the nomination which has been made from the state of Nebraska. (Applause and cheers.) William J. Bryan does not belong to Nebraska alone; he belongs to the north and the south, to the east and the west; he belongs to the whole country at large. It is a nomination already made in the hearts and affections of the American people. From the closing of the polls four years ago until this very hour there never was a possibility of any other nomination being made. (Enthusiastic cheers and applause.)

"He is a gentleman that needs no introduction to this audience, nor to the American people. Nebraska is proud of him, but New York is proud of him also, for four years he has upheld the banner of democracy in almost every state in this union. His voice has been heard not only in behalf of our principles, but in behalf of the cause of the common people in behalf of the workingmen, in behalf of humanity. He will not only have the support of his party, a united party (interrupted by applause.)

"I am here to say further that the platform that has been read is worthy of the vote and approval of every man who claims to be a democrat in this country. Those who do not admire some portion can speak for others. If there are some issues which they do not desire to present as strong as some other, they can at least talk about something in this platform that is worthy of their approval. At least, in some portions of this country the paramount issue is going to carry, and carry strongly. (Applause.)

"This nomination will meet the approval, based upon this platform, of the people of the east. (Cheers.) What we need is an old-fashioned rousing democratic victory throughout this land. That will mean a restoration of the currency of our fathers. That will mean the supremacy of equal laws throughout the country, and in this great result which we hope to achieve, I am here to say simply in conclusion, that New York expects to join with you with her thirty-six electoral votes." (Cheers.)

Seconding speeches were made by Senator Daniel, of Virginia; ex-Senator White, of California; Governor McMillan, of Tennessee; John H. Wise, of the Hawaiian delegation; Mrs. Cohen, of the Utah delegation; W. C. Baker, of Ohio, and several others.

SPOKE FOR OHIO.

W. C. Baker spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman: The democracy of Ohio in this hour of supreme moment [illegible] seconds the nomination of William J. Bryan for president of the United States. For this disciple, as well as apostle of the people, that high and historic [illegible] honored since the dawn of the republic by statesmen, by orators, by warriors, by right of every attribute of greatness becomes him and befits him. The hopes, the aspirations, the deadly earnestness of the quickened and quickening conscience of the American people demand—nay, command—a leader whose name shall stand the synonym for justice and for truth. He stands for conscience and he stands for liberty. He believes as he believes his Bible, that all mankind are and of right ought to be free. He believes in the right of liberty of the alien races lying helpless and prostrate at our feet, even now stripped and plundered by the rapacity of the Spaniard. He believes in the dignity of labor to uplift it and to crown it and to make it forever free from oppressive and unwarranted burdens. He believes in the equality of money, gold and silver, and the uses of it free from the private clutch and advantage of those who make it merchandise. He believes in the freedom of business and business enterprise unvexed by the all-devouring greed of trusts.

For these—for precious liberty, trumpet-tongued, the voice of Bryan, with the ring in it of liberty bell that rang out clear and full and forever the independence of our forefathers more than a century ago, the voice and soul of Bryan shall be on the answering echoes that will cry aloud from state to state as they record the triumphant responses in the verdict of the people.

It is high time, and the time is now, when the people in their majesty may go to battle with no other platform save the declaration of independence and the ten commandments.

That all men are born free and equal and to all men and nations it was said: "Thou shalt not covet and thou shalt not steal."

Planted upon this rock of ages, the democratic party in all these gather states and territories will go forth to blessed battle under his gallant and glorious and knightly leadership, as we lift him aloft in our hearts and ascribe his name on our banners with the thundering invocation that is our war cry of victory:

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat,
He is sifting out the hearts of men before this judgment seat.
Oh, be swift, my soul, to answer him; be jubilant, my feet,
For his name is marching on.

EX GOV. PATTISON SPEAKS.

Ex-Gov. Robert E. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, came next and received an ovation while on the way to the platform. He spoke as follows:

"Pennsylvania's excuse for detaining you at this hour is because of her enthusiasm in the work of this convention. (Cries of "Good, good!"). The voice of the people has already made this nomination. This convention has simply confirmed the sentiments of the people from the Atlantic to the Pacific. (Applause). Pennsylvania already, and at all times, is upon the firing line in every contest of the democracy. I stand here representing 150,000 democrats. The sentiments of democracy were first inculcated in the colonial government of Pennsylvania, when its founder declared that colony's capacity for self-government. I am here now seconding the nomination of one who believes, and whose every fibre vibrates with the doctrine of individual liberty and man's capacity for self-government.

"Never before in all the political history of this country was there a more important contest. The people are to determine whether they shall be restored to their own or not, whether this government shall be made a government of the few against the many, and, in seconding the nomination of the honored William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, (cheers) we have the utmost hope that a government of the people, by the people and for the people will again be restored." (Applause.)

BOUND TO HAVE HIM.

He was frequently interrupted by protests as he insisted that he could not accept. From New York came cries of "Yes, you can." When he said clearly and firmly: "I did not come into this convention as a candidate, I did not expect to be a candidate, and I cannot accept the honor," again came the cries of "Yes, you can," in greater volume than before, but this had not slightest effect. He left the platform cheered to the echo and surrounded by his friends, who pressed forward to grasp his hand.

When Georgia was called Mr. Hutchinson, of that state, who spoke briefly and clearly, delivered a short speech in seconding the nomination of Stevenson, from Illinois.

James Kennedy, of Connecticut, had yielded to Illinois in the roll call, and said expected a like favor from that state when its name was called, and James Kennedy, chairman of the state delegation, made a short seconding speech for Stevenson, of Illinois.

NOMINATES LEWIS.

When Idaho was called she gave way to Washington, and W. H. Dunphy placed in nomination the name of James Hamilton Lewis, of Washington.

The name of Mr. Lewis was received with but a few cheers, and they lasted only a few moments.

Indiana gave way to Virginia, and Congressman William A. Jones, of the latter state, seconded the nomination of Stevenson.

SECONDS STEVENSON.

Iowa seconded the nomination of Stevenson from the floor, Chairman Sells, of that delegation acquiescing in the simple announcement.

Kansas did not respond, and at the call of Kentucky there were cries of "Blackburn," but the senator did not respond, and ex-Governor McCreary, of Kentucky, came forward and seconded the nomination of Stevenson, of Illinois, whom he claimed as a son of Kentucky, he having been born in that state.

Delegate E. H. McCaleb, of Louisiana, arose in his seat on the floor and said that Louisiana seconds the nomination of David B. Hill, of New York.

BRYAN IS NOMINATED.

Mrs. Cohen's speech concluding the nominating speeches, the secretary began to call the roll of states on the ballot for the presidential nomination. The list of states and territories was completed with the calling of the territory of Hawaii. The announcement by Chairman Richardson that Mr. Bryan had been nominated for president of the United States unanimously was received with great applause, but it did not compare with previous demonstrations during the day.

As the people already were leaving the hall Chairman Richardson announced, at 8:53, that the convention was adjourned until 10:30 this morning.

STEVENSON SURPRISED.

Minneapolis, July 6.—The news of his nomination at Kansas City was given to Adlai E. Stevenson this afternoon at the summer cottage of his son-in-law, Rev. M. D. Hardin, at Lake Minnetonka, by the Associated Press representative. Said Mr. Stevenson:

"This comes as a great surprise to me. I was not a candidate at any time and never expected to be nominated. But, of course, I shall accept the call of the party. Indorse the platform? Of course I shall. How else could I accept? I believe the democrats generally will support the ticket. I had expected to do some campaigning anyway, but now I shall do a great deal more."

INDIANA'S VOTE.

Kansas City, July 6.—(Special.)—On the ballot for vice president Indiana voted as follows: Stevenson, 27; Hill, 1; Towne, 1; Shively, 1. Henry Colerick cast the one vote for Mr. Shively. On the recall of states for verification, Indiana voted solid for Stevenson. C. L. D.

INDIANA CHANGED HER VOTE.

Kansas City, July 6.—(Special.) Indiana changed her vote before the official announcement was made, and gave Stevenson 28, Towne, 2. Mr. Colerick voted for Towne and Senator Nusbaum for Stevenson. C. L. D.

When Glasscock was released there was quite a howl in his sympathizers' quarters, but they were mollified by the assurance of the management that the saving of salary by placing Brashear on first base and having Miller manage the team, would enable the club to carry one more first class pitcher. Since that day the fans have been looking for the pitcher that never came. The management thought that the quartette of pitchers on hand was doing well enough and so it would be better to pocket the savings than to spend it on pitchers, and that is why some of the best patrons of the game are standing on their hind legs and pawing the air. Fort Wayne's pitchers could scarcely be improved on, but when they are over-worked and worn out little can be expected of them. All the pitchers in the world could not make the boys hit the ball and that is what is needed now. Toledo did the polishing act yesterday and soaked our boys in a close game. Brashear was in the box for Fort Wayne and pitched a magnificent game, allowing but five hits. Toledo would have been shut out but for an error by Harper, who was playing first for Brashear. The only run for the Hoosiers was made when Brashear knocked the ball over the fence. The club returned at noon today and opened this afternoon for a series of three games with Mansfield. Won't somebody please sand the track? Yesterday's score:

PROMINENT FARMER IS DEAD

JOSEPH ELOPH PASSED AWAY THURSDAY MORNING.

Lived Fifty Years Near the Western Line of Allen County—Other Deaths and Funerals.

Joseph Eloph, a pioneer farmer, passed away at 7 o'clock Thursday evening at his home, eleven miles west of this city, at the age of 77 years and 27 days. For more than fifty years Mr. Eloph has resided near the Allen county line, his farm being in the extreme northeastern corner of Jefferson township, Whitley county, and adjoining the village of Dunfee.

Death was due to gangrenous erysipelas, and it came after a protracted illness. Mr. Eloph was a native of France, but emigrated to America in 1832. Ten years later he took up his home on the section where the remaining years of his life were spent. He was married in November, 1871 to Elizabeth Rhodes. The surviving children are Daniel Eloph, Mrs. Mary F. Deardorff, Mrs. Malinda Whicker and Nicholas J. Eloph.

Funeral services will be held Sunday morning at 9 o'clock from the residence, and at 9:30 from the Christian church at Dunfee, conducted by Rev. Wood, of Huntington. The interment will occur at the Bullard cemetery.

AFFAIRS IN POLICE CIRCLES

SOME SENSATIONAL ARRESTS MADE THURSDAY.

Half Dozen Well-Known Men Pay Fines For Public Exhibition of Blackguardism.

Yesterday afternoon a party of six well known Fort Waynelites started out for a time. Several of them are business men and the balance hold responsible positions. They had evidently been tampering considerably with the booze clerk and finally landed at the houses on the flats, where they remained from 1 o'clock until a quarter after 4 in the evening. Coming out they stopped in front of the jail residence and indulged in profanity and obscenity too vulgar to be even referred to. Mrs. Melching and daughter were seated at an upper window and promptly retired, while the sheriff went out and ordered them off the street, telling them he would be doing nothing more than his duty if he arrested them all. They pleaded, saying that they would lose their positions in some cases and in others a family row would be the result, as several of the men are married and are raising families. They promised to go right home, but instead went to Della Roger's place on Clinton street, where the sheriff and Officer Pappert later arrested the whole lot and sent for the wagon. Security was furnished and they were spared the humiliation of a patrol ride in broad daylight. They gave their names as Jack Harris, John Barnes, William Brockway, Sam Wise, Roy Clifton and Hezekiah Jones, and it is not necessary to say that all these names are fictitious. At police court this morning a friend appeared for them and a long confab ensued, the friend being willing to plead guilty to a charge of intoxication for three of the men provided the cases against the other three be dismissed. Sheriff Melching would not stand for this arrangement at all and said if the full amount of $11 in each case was not paid in he would make a separate affidavit, with proper names and would go after them right. The matter was compromised by three of them pleading guilty and accepting a fine of $22 in each case, making $66 in all.

Sam R. Miner was this morning fined $21 and six others giving fictitious names were fined $11 for gambling. They were arrested last evening in the rooms over Miner's saloon, corner of Main and Calhoun. All put up a cash forfeit and were released. The forfeit amounted to $117.

The only other victim was John McAvoy, who was arrested for plain drunkenness. He is evidently a hard working man and said he came here to work on the tunnel and would never do wrong again. Sentence was suspended and a fervent "May God give ye long life, sorr," greeted Acting Mayor Ballerman as the grateful man went away.

Della Moran, of 181 Pontiac street, reports the loss of a watch.

LOCAL LINES.

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. James Cox.

Miss Jessie Drake has been visiting friends in Burr Oak, Mich.

Miss Celestine Beers and Miss Elizabeth Clemans, who spent the Fourth with Miss Mae Norton, have returned to Bluffton.

Miss Edith White, of 76 South Wayne avenue, is entertaining Miss Annette Koch, of Toledo.

Mrs. M. Mead, of Kendallville, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. C. Sovine, of Harrison street.

Miss Mattie Miller, of 20 Marion street, is entertaining Miss Mattie Matteraon, of Wauseon, O.

Dr. W. P. Evans, of Candy, Minn., is in the city for a brief visit, the guest of the Drs. Calvin. Dr. Evans formerly resided in Spiceland, Ind. He is greatly pleased with the west.

The board of public works will meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock to select the material for the different streets to be paved in the near future. The contracts will be let at the expiration of five days.

Dear Sirs:—Some days since a package of your GRAIN O preparation was left at my office. I took it home and gave it a trial, and I have to say I was very much pleased with it, as a substitute for coffee. We have always used the best Java and Mocha in our family, but I am free to say I like the GRAIN O as well as the best coffee I ever drank.
Respectfully yours, A. C. Jackson, M. D.

STATION ROOF AT PITTSBURG COLLAPSES.

SOME CLERICAL CHANGES AT THE WABASH.

NEW CHIEF CLERK APPOINTED

GENERAL AND PERSONAL NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

Pittsburg, July 6.—The roof over the covered walk at the western entrance to the union station collapsed at 9:45 a. m. and injured six persons. The frame for a distance of 125 feet fell on the pavement and completely buried the Fort Wayne and the Pittsburg and Birmingham Traction tracks. The accident occurred just as the passengers who had come to the city on the Cincinnati and Cleveland express from the east were leaving the station and a number of persons had narrow escapes from being buried under the splintered timbers. The injured are: William Bell, aged 14 years, back injured and suffering badly from shock, taken to Homeopathic hospital; Patrick Garout, aged 12, cut about the face and head, taken to Homeopathic hospital; August Mafredda, 13 years, cut on the head and right leg badly bruised, taken to the Homeopathic hospital; Michael Dersman, laborer, scalp wound; Michael Millinick, laborer, head and back injured; Andrew Sadlick, laborer, foot crushed. None of the injured will die.

CLERICAL CHANGES.

A change in clerical positions was effected yesterday afternoon in the office of Master Mechanic G. S. McKee, of the Wabash, when Horace G. Granger was appointed chief clerk to the master mechanic and Nicholas J. Eichhorn, who had been acting in that capacity, was appointed storekeeper to succeed Mr. Granger.

There appears to be but little proof to sustain the rumors that the Pennsylvania company is after the Monon. The Pennsylvania company has a good line of its own via Indianapolis, between Chicago and Louisville.

The Seaboard Air Line is called upon to defend a suit for $50,000 growing out of one of the most unusual cases ever advanced as actionable. H. F. Sewall was for some reason egged by boys as he was boarding a Seaboard Air Line train at Shelby. Sewall claims the employes of the railway could have protected him from the indignity.

JUST SIXTY YEARS AGO TODAY

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS GRIEBEL, SR., WERE WEDDED.

Diamond Anniversary Is Celebrated in Church Where the Ceremony Was Performed.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Griebel, sr., are today celebrating their diamond, or sixtieth wedding anniversary. Special services will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran church at 7 o'clock this evening, after which the aged couple will receive delegations from the various Lutheran churches in the city, as well as other friends at their East Jefferson street residence. They have living eight children, namely Henry Griebel, of Little Rock, Ark.; Louis, William and Charles, of this city; Rev. John Griebel, of Perryville, Mo.; Mrs. Charles Regedanz, of this city, and Mrs. Wellhausen and Fred Griebel, of St. Louis. All of these are present excepting Henry and Fred. Mr. Griebel will be eighty-four years of age on the 7th of August and Mrs. Griebel will reach her eightieth natal anniversary on the 15th of September next. They have lived in Fort Wayne since 1847 and 1838 respectively, and were married on the 6th of July, 1840, by Rev. Wynchen, in St. Paul's Lutheran church, where the anniversary services will be held today, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Miller. Both are in excellent health and their legion of friends wish them many more returns of their wedding anniversary, in which wish The Sentinel most heartily joins.

OIL FIRE STILL BURNING

New York, July 6.—The fire at the Standard Oil company's works at Constable Hook, Bayonne, N. J., was still burning this morning. The fire department of Bayonne and the fire fighting force of the Standard Oil company kept up their struggle against the flames during the night, but their efforts as far as saving burning property were of little avail. About 3:15 this morning another tank exploded with a loud roar and the naptha which it contained spread in all directions. None of the injured was in a serious condition today. Many of the fire-fighters who had worked continuously for twenty-four hours were compelled to quit this morning from exhaustion and exposure to the fierce heat. The Standard Oil company is bringing new recruits from various points to add to the fire brigade with a hope of saving the main portion of the old works. Should these go up in flames the company's plant at Bayonne will be wiped out of existence, and the loss would be several million dollars greater than at present.

ROOSEVELT VISITS HANNA.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 6.—Governor Roosevelt arrived here early today via the Lake Shore road from the west. He was met at the station by Elmer Dover, Senator Hanna's private secretary. The governor entered a carriage and was driven directly to the Hanna residence where he spent the morning in conference with the national chairman. This afternoon Governor Roosevelt and Senator Hanna will go to Canton to visit the president.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Main street, from Court to Bass, will be paved with sheet asphalt. There is 1050 feet of frontage, of which the asphalt people have 525 feet, just enough to insure it.

The frescoers have completed their work at the city hall and removed their scaffolding this morning. The council chamber presents a very magnificent appearance now. The painters will be through in about a week.

William Pizarro Duffy, of the pension office at Indianapolis, is in the city on his annual vacation trip. He will leave on Monday for Lake James to do some tall sprinting in the pictorial line. If his fish turn out to be as large as the stories he will bring back with him he will have some peaches.

Mayor Schoier, Congressman Robinson and William Krough arrived home from Kansas City at noon today. They had been in attendance on the democratic convention and left after everything was fixed solid for Bryan.

The general committee of the Trades and Labor council on Labor day arrangements will hold its regular weekly meeting at Horseshoers' hall this evening.

ECZEMA THE ITCH KING
Of all the annoying, tantalizing and stubborn diseases which afflict mankind, ECZEMA stands easily supreme. In whatever form, it is caused by a morbid, diseased condition of the blood which produces eruptions and itching. Local remedies give only temporary relief.
SHOULD BE TREATED AS A BLOOD POISON
S. S. S. clears the system of the poisonous effete matter, restores the blood to a pure and healthy state, when the skin takes on new action and the eruptions and inflammation disappear. The cure is permanent. S. S. S. cures the worst cases of Eczema and Tetter.
Mr. G. W. Miller, of Delaware, Va., says: "My daughter, Lorena, had an awful eruption of the skin, which caused the most intense itching. The doctors pronounced it a severe case of Eczema, and prescribed ointments for external application, but she continued to grow worse, and the suffering was almost unbearable. We were advised to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her completely."
